Crown To Appeal Two Cases From Victoria Assizes

Higher Court Will Be Asked To Review Sentence Imposed in Pincos Case; Reversal of Verdict in Bernard Case Will Be Asked

Two cases heard this month before the Assize Court in Victoria will be appealed by the Attorney-General's Department, it was announced today.

In the case of John Pincos, who was charged with murder, convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to thirty months imprisonment after the death of Clarence Pappas, restaurant proprietor, in a shooting, the Attorney-General will appeal against the sentence imposed by the court. He will seek a heavier sentence.

The other case to be taken to the appeal court will be that of George Bernard, who was acquitted of a charge of possessing stolen goods in connection with a $5,000 jewel robbery at the D. O. Cameron home. The crown will ask for reversal of the verdict.

Notices of appeal will be filed shortly, it is expected.

HELPS CONTROL SANCTIONS MOVES

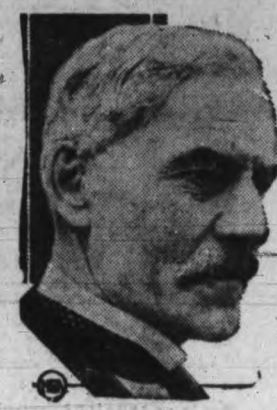

With the League of Nations sanctions scheduled to go into effect against Italy next Monday, the committee have the schemes worked out in detail—and there are multitudinous details. Dr. Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, above, as president of the League Council, has played a most important, though inconspicuous role.

New York, Nov. 15.—H. G. Wells, British author, a visitor in New York to-day, renewed his prediction that 1940 would see another world conflict.

"War breaks out in 1940," said the distinguished novelist and historian, who arrived yesterday from Great Britain.

Defeat for One—Triumph for Other

RT. HON. J. RAMSAY MACDONALD

London, Nov. 15.—In Seaham, Durham, Emanuel Shinwell made the most sensational Labor gain of the British general election yesterday when he defeated Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald (National Labor), Lord President of the Council and former Prime Minister, by 20,498 votes. Mr. MacDonald's majority in 1931 was 5,551.

Malcolm MacDonald, Colonial Secretary in the National Government and son of Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, was defeated in the Bassett-law division of Nottinghamshire, F. J. Bellenger gaining the seat for the Conservatives.

RT. HON. STANLEY BALDWIN

Prime Minister of Great Britain

Labor, Mr. MacDonald was the first cabinet minister whose defeat was announced.

Labor Gains Sixty-nine From Conservatives In Polling and Conservatives Gain Four From Labor and Four From Liberals; Premier Baldwin Describes Result as "Splendid"

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Nov. 15.—Assured of at least 430 supporters among the 615 members in the next House of Commons, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin holds to-night a mandate to support the League of Nations, to mend the gaps in Britain's defences and continue the National Government's programme of gradual reconstruction at home.

National Government candidates in yesterday's general election gained what would be known as a sweeping victory in any ordinary test, but so great was the landslide of 1931 that the government's majority has been reduced from 409 at dissolution to about 255 in the new Parliament.

"It is a splendid result," said the Prime Minister. "The country has renewed its support of the National Government."

He left London to spend a quiet week-end at Chequers.

Conservative headquarters had expected the government to lose more seats. Majorities in all parts of the country came crashing down, from the record high levels of 1931, but the Labor party failed to gain more than twenty seats from the Conservatives, and lost four to them.

The Labor Party more than doubled its strength, and ousted the former head of the National Government, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, in Seaham, Durham, together with his son, Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald, in Basildon. Rural constituencies reporting late to-day swelled the total of government seats.

POPULAR VOTE
The popular vote for the government at mid-afternoon was 8,490,191 and against the government 8,197,475. In the 1931 general election the government vote totaled 14,539,403 and the opposition vote 6,865,330.

POSITION OF LEADERS
Party leaders had varying degrees of success. Prime Minister Baldwin was returned unopposed in the Bowdley Division of Worcestershire. C. R. Attlee pushed up his majority for Labor in Limehouse, Sir Herbert Samuel, the Liberal chief, was defeated by a Conservative in Darwen after a hard fight, and the British Communist leader, Harry Pollitt, was easily beaten by the Labor nominee—in Rhondda East.

Dominion Secretary J. H. Thomas, won by a reduced majority in Derby. In the London boroughs Labor gained eleven seats. "I had hoped Labor would do better," commented Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison, former Secretary of the Admiralty.

Girl Flier Safe; Landed in Swamp

Associated Press

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 14.—Jean Batien, French aviator, who was flying alone over the south Atlantic, had landed at Praia Seca, about fifty-three miles north of Rio de Janeiro, because of lack of fuel.

Three army planes had searched for her after she was hours overdue following her departure from Natal early yesterday on the last leg of an England-to-Brazil flight.

It was learned here the propeller of her plane was twisted as she landed in the swamp about four miles south of the town of Araruama.

Appeal Tribunal For Performers

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—Establishment of an appeal tribunal to determine disputes arising out of performance of copyright works in public and to pass on the tariffs charged by the Canadian Performing Rights Society Limited is recommended by Judge James Parker of Toronto in his report on an investigation into the operations of the society which was made public to-day.

CITY FEELS OCEAN GALE

Wind Blew in Gusts at Rate of 60 Miles an Hour, But No Damage Reported

Victoria was swept by a severe gale yesterday evening during which the wind blew from the south and southeast in gusts at the rate of between fifty-five and sixty miles an hour.

Little damage was reported, however, except broken fences and a number of small chimney fires. All small boats about Victoria were securely moored and none went adrift or ashore.

The wind sprang up yesterday afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock. It blew from the southeast and increased steadily until between 9 and 10 o'clock it was blowing at a velocity of fifty miles an hour.

It decreased during the next hour to forty-five miles and gradually dropped during the night.

This morning there was intermittent rain and sunshine, although storm clouds were still blowing up over the Olympic Mountains and Sooke Hills, presaging unsettled weather conditions off the coast. The weather on the Pacific Coast was remarkably mild.

CANADIAN-U.S. TRADE TREATY SIGNED TO-DAY

President Roosevelt's Entire Cabinet Sees Premier King and Secretary of State Hull Put Names on Document at Washington

Associated Press

Washington, Nov. 15.—Hailed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull as "an outstanding step in the direction of economic sanity," the new Canadian-United States trade treaty was signed to-day by Prime Minister King and Secretary Hull in the presence of President Roosevelt and his cabinet.

Prime Minister King affixed his signature for Canada and Mr. Hull for the United States.

Details of the pact will not be made public for at least two days.

Tariff reductions and other concessions which it contains probably will become operative before the end of the year.

MOST IMPORTANT
Prized by both governments as cementing a traditional friendship, the agreement is regarded by State Department officials as the most important of the series of treaties being negotiated under the Reciprocal Tariff Act of 1934.

By mutual tariff reductions, they hope it will break down barriers blamed for a sharp drop in commerce between the two countries during the last five years.

Fraser Bridge Job To Benefit Island

Byron Johnson, M.P.P., Tells Victoria Liberals Why He Voted For New Westminster Structure; Big Cement Contract Will Be Placed Here

While the New Westminster bridge over the Fraser River, according to present arrangements, will not cost the taxpayers of Victoria one cent, it will benefit the island to the extent of many thousands of dollars in expenditure for supplies, declared Byron Johnson, M.P.P. for Victoria in an address before the annual meeting of the Victoria Liberal Association yesterday evening.

Mr. Johnson said he felt an explanation of his position on the bridge issue was due in view of some remarks that he had heard in connection with it.

He believed, he said, the B.C. Cement Company would get the contract for supplying the cement for the structure, a contract in the neighborhood of $250,000. This company gave employment to island men, was furnished with island coal, island power and island services. Mr. Johnson expressly stated his own firm would get nothing out of the cement contract.

It was quite apparent that the project would thus directly benefit this locality.

On the other hand, with tolls levied to pay for the structure, the cost would not fall upon Victoria taxpayers. "I firmly believe," he said, "that there is nothing more needed in this province than the bridge."

And I think it reflects credit again.

Hospital Delegates Seek Compulsory Liability Insurance in B.C.

Legislation requiring that public liability insurance be carried on all motor vehicles in British Columbia will be sought from government authorities in a resolution sponsored by E. S. Withers, New Westminster, and passed by the provincial hospitals' association in session at the Empress Hotel this morning.

The association, in another resolution, also sought power to have insurance companies pay hospital bills and deduct the amount from the insured's policy.

The reason for the plea was set out in the preamble to the resolution, which explained the loss of unpaid bills suffered by hospitals in motor accident cases.

It was stated that hospitals took a financial risk when accepting motor accident cases and in a fairly large percentage of cases, collection of the accounts was never made.

The resolutions, introduced by J. M. Coady, chairman of the resolutions committee, received unanimous support.

M'GIVERIN IS LIBERAL HEAD

Chosen on First Ballot at Annual Meeting of Victoria Association

At the most largely attended annual meeting in recent years, H. M. McGivern was elected president of the Victoria Liberal Association yesterday evening.

He succeeds W. H. Kinsman, who has held the office for the last three years and did not stand for re-election.

The annual meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, which was filled to capacity.

Mr. McGivern won the office of president with a margin of 128 votes over Alderman Andrew McGavin, who headed one of the two slates of candidates submitted to the meeting.

The vote was: McGivern 363, McGavin 235.

Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, nominated on the same slate as Mr. McGivern, went in as first vice-president by 374 to 186 over Arthur P. Dawe.

McGEER'S LEAD IS SIX VOTES

Indicated He Will Be Declared Elected For Vancouver-Burrard

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 15.—Mayor G. G. McGeer, Liberal, will be declared member of Parliament for Vancouver-Burrard by a margin of six votes. It was indicated today by unofficial figures compiled during the recount conducted before County Judge J. N. Ellis, Arnold Webster, C.C.F., was declared elected by four votes on the original count.

ALWAYS IN LEAD
When the count of 413 reserved ballots began to-day, McGeer was leading by nine votes. As the count of the reserved ballots continued, his lead fluctuated, at one time going as low as three, and reaching a high of ten. He never lost the lead.

Cement Contract Is Not Settled

The contract for supplying cement for the Fraser River bridge has not yet been awarded by the government. Hon. P. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, said this morning.

In reference to remarks made by Byron Johnson, M.P.P., at the Victoria Liberal Association meeting yesterday evening, the minister said that naturally the B.C. Cement Company would supply the material for the bridge job, being the only source in the province. Negotiations had been started as to the price the government would pay but nothing was decided so far, he added.

BICYCLE BANDIT IN VANCOUVER NOW

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 15.—A bicycle bandit who has been making a name for himself in Vancouver, the thug pedalled alongside C. Duckering's bicycle, knocked him to the ground and, leaping from his own machine, brandished a revolver. Duckering grappled with the gunman who broke away and fled. Police found the revolver dropped by the bandit was not in working order.

MacDonald Says Tactics "Filthy"

Ex-premier of Britain, Who Lost Commons Seat, Arrives in London Near Collapse; Says Brickbats Thrown at Women Supporters in Seaham

Canadian Press

London, Nov. 15.—Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, arriving in London this morning by train from Durham, after losing his seat at Seaham in yesterday's general election, said:

"I have no wish to bicker, but I really do feel I am justified in describing the contest as a tremendously keen one—and a filthy one as well."

Without referring by name to Emanuel Shinwell, his Labor opponent, Mr. MacDonald added: "The tactics were absolutely reprehensible. Throwing of brickbats yesterday at my women supporters in Seaham came as a climax to a series of horrible demonstrations."

"DEFEATED OLD MAN"
Leaving the train, the man who was Prime Minister from June, 1929, until June of this year, described himself frankly as "a done-in old man."

His face was drawn and pinched, and his attendant on the sleeping car said he had "never seen a man nearer collapse than Mr. MacDonald when he got on the train."

Defeat and weariness were expressed in every line of his body and the very tone of his voice.

"All I want is sleep and still more sleep. I'm a completely undone old man," he said.

LOYD GEORGES ARE RE-ELECTED

London, Nov. 15.—Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, former Prime Minister, was re-elected in yesterday's voting, late returns showed to-day.

He was the first of the four Lloyd George Liberals (opposition) re-elected in the new Commons.

Shortly afterward the election of his daughter, Megan, was announced in the Welsh constituency of Anglesey.

In Pembroke, Wales, Major G. Lloyd George, Independent Liberal, was re-elected, his majority being 1,074.

Franco-German Treaty Talk

Non-aggression Agreement As Step For British-French-Reich Understanding

London, Nov. 15.—A non-aggression pact between France and Germany which would also include a German promise to attack neither Czechoslovakia nor the Soviet Union for a period of five years is reported by The Manchester Guardian to be among the possible terms of an Anglo-French-German agreement.

In London political circles it is felt the prospect of direct Franco-German conversations should be encouraged, provided Britain is kept in close touch with the course of the discussions.

IN TWO STAGES

According to The Manchester Guardian report, France's intentions were described today as follows: "The first stage would be Franco-German and the second Anglo-Franco-German. The proposals which are understood to be under consideration and which are likely to be put before Germany in the first instance are:

"1. Reaffirmation of Locarno, which would be given the form of a non-aggression pact between France and Germany.

"2. A solemn promise by Germany not to attack during the next five years either Czechoslovakia or the Soviet Union. The five-year limit would coincide with the duration of the Franco-Soviet pact, ratification of which is now considered inevitable. "The principal topics they would probably be a western air pact and colonial outlets for Germany, and possibly Austria. Terms on which Germany would return to the League of Nations might also be discussed."

THREE LIVES LOST IN FIRE

Children Victims of Blaze in Shack at Kirkland Lake, Ontario

Kirkland Lake, Ont., Nov. 15.—Left alone in their shack home two miles from here, three children of Charles Edwards, Lake Shore Mine employee, were burned to death when fire broke out late last night. The children were Russell, twelve; Reid, eleven; and Korine, eight.

Gordon Hubbard, volunteer fireman, dashed into the building before it collapsed, but was overcome by smoke and suffered bad cuts on one hand. He was unable to find the youngsters, whose bodies were later taken from the hot mass of timbers, two of them apparently clasped in each other's arms.

The father, due for work at the mine on the 11 o'clock shift, had left the house earlier in the evening while the mother had come to spend the evening with friends in Kirkland Lake.

Origin of the fire will probably never be known. The shack was situated in a scattered settlement outside Kirkland Lake and the lack of water facilities made it impossible for firemen to do anything but prevent the flames from spreading to two adjoining homes.

BARS FOR ITALY'S AIRMAIL SERVICE

Associated Press
Rome, Nov. 15.—Italy's proposed airmail service to her colonies in Africa may be blocked as an additional sanction. It was reported unofficially today.

This report said Great Britain was planning to abandon the air service itinerary—operated by Imperial Airways—over Italy on the way to India and also to withdraw permission for Italy to fly mail planes over Egypt, the Sudan and British Somaliland.

retreated over a 10,000-foot ridge to the west, leaving fifty-five dead and an uncounted number of wounded. TOWN OCCUPIED

Gen. Mariotti then was able to occupy Asbi just east of Makale, but he was still separated from Gen. Ruggero Santini's column in Makale by a mountain.

On the Italian side, twenty Askari were killed and four Italian officers wounded in the Asbi encounter.

By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Addis Ababa, Nov. 15.—A squadron of Italian planes dropped fifty bombs on Dagah Bur, killing one priest and destroying a church by fire, the Ethiopian Government said today in a communique.

The official announcement said the attack was made yesterday on the town 100 miles southeast of Jijiga, main objective of the Italian army on the southern front.

Italian reports earlier this week said the Fascist forces seized Saneh and sent advance guards forward thirty miles northwest to the town of Dagah Bur, but the Ethiopian Government denied this claim.

Baldwin's Commons Majority Is 255

Minister of Transport, who regained his seat in South Hackney. He leads the Labor majority in the London County Council.

MACDONALD'S DEFEAT
"I am not at all surprised," said former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at his London home when informed he had been overwhelmed in Seaham, Durham, by Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, with a majority of 20,498.

"Seaham," he declared, "is not only in a special area where the meat is the predominance issue, but the great majority of the electors are miners, and a wage increase had been made a special issue."

LIVELY SCENES
There were wild scenes of enthusiasm in Seaham when it became known MacDonald had been defeated by one of the largest majorities in the country.

Some time passed before the returning officer could obtain sufficient quiet to make his declaration. Escorted by police officers and election helpers, Emanuel Shinwell, the victorious candidate, went to the Municipal Hall, where the miners and their wives cheered him loudly and sang "The Red Flag."

"We obtained a majority that will strike at the National Government," declared Shinwell. "The National Government rested on Ramsay MacDonald. We have withdrawn the prop and the government will come hurtling to the ground. It can no longer keep up the pretence of being National," he cried. "and we shall know it for what it is—a Conservative government."

Joseph Dawson, chairman of the Divisional Labor Party, said roughly 85 per cent of the electors had voted in the Seaham landslide.

Home Secretary Sir John Simon retained open Valley for the Liberal-Nationalist contest, won by Ramsay MacDonald. His majority fell from 12,098 to 9,412.

His successor at Geneva, Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, Minister for League of Nations Affairs, was elected by a large though reduced majority in Wakefield and Leamington.

By a strange turn of fortune Emanuel Shinwell, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald's victorious opponent in Seaham, was Minister of Mines under MacDonald in the last Labor government. Malcolm MacDonald, Co-ventry Secretary, was defeated in Basildon, while Seaham is a "mining constituency."

TWO MINISTERS DEFEATED
Both MacDonalds were in the cabinet—the only two ministers to suffer defeat—and both fought grim battles. In Seaham the former Prime Minister had had to struggle night after night for a hearing, and frequently his meetings were broken up in wild disorder.

Sir Herbert Samuel, defeated Liberal chief, said today the Labor Party had handed Darwin over to the Conservatives. He was beaten by S. H. Minto Russell, Conservative.

"The result," declared Sir Herbert, "is not an expression of support for the government as the number of votes cast against it was 21,000, whereas those for it amount to only 15,000, and this result."

"exposes the imperfection of the present voting system, and indicates the need for electoral reform." The Liberal Party in its election manifesto advocated proportionate representation.

FITZROY RE-ELECTED
Rt. Hon. E. A. Fitzroy, Speaker of the House of Commons since 1929, held Daventry for the Conservatives with a majority of 8,167 over T. E. Barnes, Labor.

Wild demonstrations followed the announcement of the result in the Hanley division of Stoke-on-Trent. After the defeated Conservative, H. K. Hales, had congratulated his successful Labor opponent, A. Hollins, the latter announced he had been handed a writ for alleged libel. The writ was immediately thrown into an uproar, and for ten minutes pandemonium reigned. The writ was thrown on the floor and kicked unmercifully.

McGOVERN RE-ELECTED
J. McGovern, Independent Labor Party member noted for his attacks in Parliament on royalty, was re-elected in the Shetland division of Glasgow by 4,973, where he obtained a margin of only 700 in 1931.

James Maxton, leader of Independent Labor Party, doubled his 1931 majority, winning in the Bridgeton division of Glasgow by 8,470 votes.

ORMSBY-GORE RE-ELECTED
London, Nov. 15.—Rt. Hon. W. O. Ormsby-Gore, First Commissioner of the National Government, retained his seat in the Staffordshire division of Staffordshire, defeating F. G. Lloyd, Labor, the only other candidate, by 9,561 votes.

McGavin reiterated that he had a perfect right to do so in a free country. If elected he would have been an Independent Liberal, he said.

C. J. McDowell was nominated as well, but withdrew without comment.

Both candidates made brief appearances. Mr. McGavin made a special request to have his own scrutineers appointed as well as the official appointees. This was granted by the meeting.

Actually 603 ballots were cast, five being spoiled.

Red White was returning officer. After the presidency was decided, other officers were contested as had been indicated from advance nominations.

Mr. Kinsman nominated Alderman Hawkins for first vice-president, and Mr. J. B. Clapham nominated Mr. Davies for second vice-president.

Mr. Lemm was nominated for second vice by R. Jenkins and Mr. Humphries by D. W. Davies.

J. B. Clapham moved the nomination of Mr. Cox for secretary and Alan Tuckwell nominated Mr. Davies. The annual reports were submitted previous to the election of officers. The financial statement was balanced in receipts and expenditure at $955.

The association was shown to have assets valued at $950.81, with no liabilities.

Canada-U.S. Trade Treaty Signed To-day

FORWARD STEP
Mr. Hull made this statement after the signing ceremony.

"While many other parts of the world are slipping in the direction of economic suicide, the trade agreement between our two countries marks an outstanding step in the direction of economic sanity."

"It seeks to stimulate sound and healthy trade relationships and thereby to restore employment to the unemployed and a wholesome prosperity to the peoples of both countries."

"It sets an example of what must be done to establish a solid foundation on which to rebuild a suitable structure of world peace."

UNUSUAL SCENE
Rarely if ever before had the entire United States cabinet participated in such a ceremony.

Members formed a semi-circle behind the President's desk as Premier King and Secretary Hull signed the two copies of the treaty.

Then the United States seal was affixed by Sidney Y. Smith of the State Department.

Formal proclamations by the heads of both governments were all that remained to make the treaty operative.

STATEMENTS BY LEADERS
"I am confident this constructive step will contribute greatly to the economic recovery of both the United States and Canada," said President Roosevelt.

Prime Minister King likewise voiced hope that it would increase trade and added:

"To an anxious and troubled world we hope there will be opened to the nations by the force of our example vistas of a surer path to progress and a more lasting road to peace."

Fraser Bridge Job To Benefit Island

on the administration that they went ahead in face of the criticism that arose."

He spoke of the danger of overlooking the present structure, recalling the Point Ellice bridge tragedy here.

Mr. Johnson reviewed briefly other aspects of government work and his own advocacy for the island. In his road programme the Minister of Public Works had done what he could for the island, making much-needed improvements. Mr. Johnson felt more was required, but realized the money was a limited amount.

Mr. Johnson said the enthusiasm demonstrated at the meeting augured well for the Liberal movement not only in Victoria but throughout western Canada.

In reference to the interprovincial conference, Mr. Johnson said Canada was on the threshold of great changes.

"I can not confidently say that we in the west will get everything that some people expect, but I feel sure that in our trade can be found the real solution for most of our troubles," he said.

He added that he was postponing judgment on the new trade pact, in its effect on western Canada, until after he had seen the terms. For many years, the tariff situation had been such that the province had not received a large enough price from the United States for its raw products in comparison to what it paid for imported manufactured goods.

As an instance of this, he cited figures of lumber shipments from British Columbia to the United States and the purchase of cars in British Columbia, showing how the duties adversely affected the bargain which British Columbia obtained. He had advocated, he added, that the provincial government promote an export corporation that would arrange for exchange on a fair basis.

Three other speakers addressed the meeting.

MR. WHITTAKER
Norman Whittaker, M.P.P. for Seaside, congratulated the association on the fine turnout and also upon the fine, though losing fight, put up by the Liberals in the federal election.

He also drew attention to the fact that in Nanaimo riding the Liberals had reduced their adverse margin from 3,000 to 500 between 1930 and 1935. Alan Chambers, he added, had done an excellent job of stimulating interest in Liberalism in the riding and would win the seat at the next election.

Discussing the question of machine politics from an abstract viewpoint,

Mr. Whittaker said those who often voiced criticism of this kind were mainly responsible by their indifference. He went on to point out that much of the beneficial legislation passed by governments originated in resolutions passed by the party associations.

Mr. Whittaker then outlined work of the provincial government, drawing particular attention to the Young Men's Forestry Training Plan and the placer mining camps. Thirty of the 800 in forestry camps had been given permanent jobs as a result of the training. It was hoped 1,000 young men could be trained next year.

"These things are a clear indication that our government recognizes the need of getting our young men away from the cities and into employment in our basic industries," he declared.

C. J. McDOWELL
C. J. McDowell, Liberal candidate here in the federal contest, thanked his supporters and workers in the election. He felt the whole campaign had been cleanly fought and expressed appreciation of the manner in which the daily newspapers had treated all parties.

While Victoria was traditionally Conservative, it was significant that out of 21,000 votes cast, the Conservative had received only 7,000. The majority against the Bennett government was therefore two to one.

He outlined some of the things already done by the new Liberal administration, particularly the reciprocal trade agreement with the United States, the first of its kind in sixty-nine years. This treaty, it was indicated, would be of twofold benefit to B.C. in that it assisted the province in disposing of its raw materials such as livestock, lumber, base minerals and fish, while it would get certain types of machinery and manufactured products at cheaper prices as well as tropical fruits.

ALAN CHAMBERS
Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in Nanaimo, said while the mainland would have several representatives of the government side in the next House, he was sorry the island would not be represented because there was a different viewpoint on the island.

Relative to the impending trade pact with the U.S., Mr. Chambers said he was withholding his own judgment upon it until the terms were announced. However, he was pleased to see the first major move by the new government was toward increased trade.

He made the point that certain negotiations were under way, whereas phases of the empire trade agreements should be not destroyed as far as the island was concerned since the lumber industry had benefited under these in the British market.

Mr. Chambers drew attention to the need for reviving the coal industry, also most important to the island. He pledged himself to continue his own fight on behalf of this industry, which, he declared, was declining at a rapid rate. There were possibilities, he pointed out, in the distillation of coal, as he had shown in a brief to the B.C. fuel commission. He felt the future of the industry lay, not in the sale of the raw coal, but in the sale of coal by-products, especially gasoline and oil.

From the point of view of empire defence this was important, as well as a matter of employment.

He hoped the B.C. delegation to Ottawa would bear the matter in mind.

Transfer of the relief camps from the National defence department to the Labor department, would, he sincerely hoped, be the first step in the abolition of the camps.

RE-ELECT HEAD OF HOSPITALS

to represent the various districts of the province were as follows: A. P. Glen, Nanaimo, Vancouver Island; J. M. Coady, Vancouver, Vancouver City; W. G. McKenzie, Prince Rupert, Coast mainland; Mrs. W. S. Knight, Fraser Valley; S. M. Coles, Kamloops, Yale-Cariboo; William Morley, Vernon, Okanagan; Miss Vera Edg, Nelson, Kootenay West; Sister Mary Chalmers, Kootenay East; and H. W. Birch, Grand Trunk.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN
The following were elected conveners of standing committees: Dr. A. K. Hayward, Vancouver, medical affairs; Percy Ward, North Vancouver, business affairs; Miss Grace N. Fairley, Prince Rupert, nursing affairs; E. G. Smith, Chilliwack, constitution and by-laws; Mrs. A. C. Wilkes, Vancouver, women's auxiliaries.

The three-day session concluded at before 1 o'clock today after devoting most of the morning to a discussion of the responsibility of the nursing service to the public, led by Miss Harriet Smith, R.N., superintendent of the nurses at the Harborview Hospital, Seattle, who read a paper prepared by Miss H. M. Adams, R.N., educational director of Harborview division, University of Washington School of Nursing.

The responsibility of nurses was described as giving the quality and kind of nursing care which the public kind needed.

The discussion followed the relations between the nursing service and the hospitals and general public and their contribution to community service.

More than 100 delegates and visitors registered for the convention which opened on Wednesday morning.

MR. BALDWIN SUSTAINED

ALTHOUGH THE RESULTS ARE NOT complete as this is written, there is every indication that the National government of Great Britain scored more than a three-to-one victory in the general elections held yesterday, and that out of a total membership in the House of Commons of 615 it is assured of a majority over all other parties of probably 250. This will be very considerably less, of course, than the votes it could command in the last Parliament; but the number of the government candidates elected may be interpreted as a definite mandate to carry on with the policies which it has been pursuing during the last few months. The Labor party, by the way, more than doubled its strength, and, naturally, will constitute the official opposition.

The contest just concluded has been correctly described as a "whirlwind campaign." Obviously it was sufficiently long to permit the electorate to make up its mind what it wanted. Mr. Baldwin asked for permission for his government to go on with the business of the country already in hand, and especially to deal with the all-important international situation. He put the issue in this regard, in all its implications and possibilities, squarely up to the electorate. He could not have wished for a more satisfactory endorsement—but he will have a more substantial opposition than he had in the last House.

Foreign policy was one of the foremost subjects discussed on the hustings, over the air, and in the newspapers. As between the proposals of the government, the Labor party, and the Liberal party, however, there did not seem to be any fundamental difference. All the parties are solidly behind the League of Nations, all want the war in Ethiopia stopped as quickly as possible, all want either very strict limitation of armaments or a measure of disarmament which will reduce the risk of wars in the future. There are various ways in which the three parties would go about attaining these desirable ends. The people have decided that the National government's way is the one to employ for the time being.

The National government's present policy in regard to armaments may present a paradox. Its proposal is to increase the strength of the British Navy and to "do what is necessary to repair gaps in our defenses as they have accumulated in the past decade." The last Parliament, it will be recalled, voted a special appropriation for the strengthening of the Royal Air Force. Recognizing the fact that Great Britain stood sixth among the nations in the number of fighting airplanes at its disposal in case of attack, it quite naturally felt it had to do something about it, at all the other nations were building fighting ships in almost feverish haste. Upon the belligerent mood of certain nations of continental Europe, then belligerent enough and more so now, the government rested its case in justification for this course of action. It has now instructions still further to "repair gaps" in the country's defenses.

The seeming paradox pales in the light of the fact that in recent years Great Britain has done a good deal of practical disarming, materially and mentally, but while all this has been going on the other nations, especially of Europe and a part of Asia, have failed to follow her example; they have openly flouted that provision of the Covenant of the League of Nations which required the signatories of that document gradually to reduce their armaments. Britain, as the most vulnerable of those signatory nations, could not be expected to continue to decrease her defensive strength. She has recently looked across the English Channel and the North Sea with a considerable amount of distrust. Thus there was nothing left for the government to do but to take the people of the country into its confidence and ask for instructions. It now has received them; but this does not mean that there is going to be another competition in armaments between Great Britain and any other country or countries.

The Labor and Liberal parties announced their stout opposition to any further rearmament. Their candidates denounced the government's foreign and empire trade policies. Indeed, it was a good old free-for-all on those and many domestic issues. It is now all over, however, and while the forces led by Mr. Baldwin may not fare as well on a future occasion, the decision yesterday is another proof that the electorate of Great Britain does not like to change its governmental horses in the middle of a stream which is strewn with jagged international boulders.

Incidentally, there were some remarkable upsets in the contest, the most amazing of which was the defeat of former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in the Seaham division of Durham by the almost incredible majority of 20,498. Sir John Simon, former Liberal and now National-Liberal (government), Home Secretary, made the grade by a majority of only 642, compared with a majority of nearly 13,000 at the general elections of 1931. Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the "straight" Liberals, went down to defeat, while Mr. Lloyd George and his daughter Megan, came through with flying colors. Social Credit and Communist candidates woke up this morning to contemplate the loss of their deposits.

LAW AND CRIME

CANADA'S REPUTATION FOR prompt and impartial administration of justice has been the chief deterrent to the importation of criminal practices which account for the formidable crime problems south of the international boundary line. The underworld in the United States up to recent times has had a very general wholesome respect for Canadian law and its enforcement, and the remark of a southern desperado that he would rather take his chances on a murder charge in his state than that of stealing a motor car in Canada expressed the opinion of his ilk on the subject, incidentally implying a compliment to this country.

The conditions of justice administration and law enforcement in Canada are exceedingly simple in comparison with those of the neighboring republic. We have one criminal code for the whole Dominion, while each state of the union has its own criminal laws. We have only federal courts while in the republic there are both federal and state courts. No extradition proceedings are required for the removal of an accused person from one province to another, while these are necessary as between the various states. In the main, therefore, we have much more favorable facilities for the control and punishment of crime than the United States with its baffling complexities of criminal law and court procedure.

But these basic advantages in her law enforcement structure in themselves do not furnish any certain guarantee that Canada's crime sheet will remain an object of fear to the underworld, or of admiration to the underworld, abroad. It is possible to erect upon a sound foundation a superstructure so full of deficiencies and disabilities that with the increase of the Canadian population and the growth of its urban centres we may become a happy hunting-ground for criminals who find their habitat in other countries too hot for comfort. Once let the impression get abroad that our Dominion is easing up in its law enforcement or its punishment for serious crime, and regards the administration of justice as a matter of incidents, rather than an agency for the protection of society as a whole, as a thing of fine technicality rather than of supreme public interest, and we shall have in our big centres conditions which will duplicate those which have existed in Chicago, New York and other cities across the boundary line.

If we want to keep gang warfare with bombs, submachine guns, armored cars and so forth out of Canada, it is imperative that we make clear that the capital crimes when proven shall involve fit punishment, not in the spirit of vengeance against the criminals, but for the protection of society; that offences against persons are more reprehensible than offences against property. It is not enough to lash and sentence for long terms people convicted of robbery, if at the same time we do not adequately protect human life.

There is another reason why it is vitally important that Canada should preserve at all costs her reputation for strict law enforcement and stern administration of justice, and that is the demoralizing effect of her failure to do so upon the youth of the country, particularly in these times of discouragement and disillusionment and consequent cynical standards of right and wrong. It is scarcely necessary to emphasize the encouragement to desperate measures which laxity in this vital public service is bound to create.

The administration of justice is not something apart from the welfare of the public as a whole. It is an integral part of the whole national fabric, and must be viewed in its relation to the public interest, not in its relation to any particular incident in the courts. If we adhere to that principle Canada will escape the penalties which have followed the non-observance of it in other countries.

SPEEDING AND DEATH

THE MOTOR VEHICLES ACT REQUIRES

that "every person driving or operating a motor vehicle on any highway shall drive and operate in a careful and prudent manner, having regard to all the circumstances including the rate of speed, and the weight and size of the vehicle, the nature, condition and use of the highway, and the traffic which actually is at the time or might reasonably be expected to be on it; and no person shall drive or operate a motor vehicle on any highway so as to endanger the life or limb of any person or the safety of any property."

The violation of this provision is described as driving to the common danger. The next section of the Act sets forth that subject to exceptions in the cases of fire departments and police, "any person driving or operating a motor vehicle on any highway within any city, town or village at a greater speed than twenty miles an hour, or upon any highway, not within a city, town or village at a greater speed than thirty miles an hour; shall be deemed to be driving or operating the motor vehicle in other than a careful and prudent manner."

While it is true that it is possible to drive to the common danger at a slow rate of speed, it is plain enough that most reckless and dangerous drivers are fast drivers, and that the majority of disastrous accidents arise from this cause. There would be less fatalities if a reasonable speed limit were bluntly fixed and drastically enforced, and drivers with a penchant for fast driving were eliminated from the highways altogether. It is impossible to educate speedsters to be careful except by stiff penalties imposed under the law.

It should not be forgotten that the motor car is a potential agency of serious injury or death in the hands of a reckless driver, much more so, in fact, than the numerous instruments of destruction the use of which is prohibited except under the most restrictive conditions. The law should be based upon a proper appreciation of these circumstances, and should be enforced in such a way as to insure for the public a fair measure of protection for its life or limb.

Mr. Baldwin is not yet in the marathon class of Prime Ministers like Aristide Briand of France—but up till yesterday he was in the three-times Prime Minister class in Great Britain, sharing the honors with Henry Pelham, the Earl of Derby—we are quoting from 1721 up to the present time—Marquis of Salisbury, and James Ramsay MacDonald. But now he has tied with William Ewart Gladstone, who was Prime Minister in 1868, 1880, 1886 and 1892. Mr. Baldwin first assumed the Prime Ministership in 1923, again in 1924, again last summer, and now he is about to assume it once more. But the late M. Briand still is seven up on him.

Just Folks

CHILDREN

Up and down and in and out
Race the children round about,
Screaming screams and bawling shouts,
Noisey brats if they're not yours.

Batting balls across the wall,
Caring not where they may fall;
Trampling down the lovely flowers,
Little lumps if they're not ours.

Quarrelling about their games,
Throwing stones and calling names,
Just like demons running wild,
Least it be our precious child.

Taking fruit that isn't theirs,
Robbing treps of plums and pears,
Little thieves their toils should spank,
But for my boy—just a prank!

Loose Ends

The origin of poetry is discovered—in a queer place—culture advances on all fronts—and the Revolution is betrayed.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MR. SCHULTZ

IN MY RECENT amiable argument with my esteemed friend, Miss Jeanette Stein, over the work of Gertrude Stein, the poetess, I was laboring under the obstacle of complete ignorance of the subject. It is an obstacle which I can hardly ever avoid in this column but which I always face manfully without a whimper. However, I have just traced down the origin of that Steinian poetry which is so esteemed by Gertrude's admirers, and the origin, I think, is interesting.

You have heard of the late Mr. Dutch Schultz? Mr. Schultz was by way of being New York's Number One gangster and was recently assassinated by a group of his rivals who were incapable of appreciating his greatness. As Mr. Schultz lay breathing his last, a police photographer took down his parting words, uttered in a deep delirium exactly as he said them. If Miss Stein had ever been able to achieve a poem like the last words of Dutch Schultz her admirers undoubtedly would have called it her supreme masterpiece. Indeed, if I hadn't told you that this was the final utterance of a New York gangster, you would have sworn that it was one of Gertrude's odes, upon which Miss Cann was recently lecturing.

Here is the Schultz gem which will make Miss Stein green with envy: "Be instrumental in letting us know—they are Englishmen, and they are a pipe . . . I don't know, I don't know which is best—they or us—oh, str! get a doll, a roofing—you can play licks—and girls do that with a soft ball, and do tricks with it—and take all events into consideration—No. No. And it is No. It is confused and says No."

"A boy has never wept, nor dashed a thousand-Kim, if you hear me. . . By this exhibit it is clearly proved that the Steinian poetry is written, you get into a delirium on the very edge of dissolution, but not quite over it, and then you start to talk and someone takes it down and, behold, it is a sonnet which will pay you handsomely and afford a theme for lectures by teachers of literature from Vienna to Victoria. The only trouble with the late Mr. Schultz was that he discovered his talent too late. If he had only gone to work earlier his competition would probably have put Gertrude out of business altogether. Instead of being New York's Number One gangster he would have been its Number One songster."

PROGRESS

Progress and civilization are making a fine sweep, cutting a broad swath up Rockland Avenue these days. The boulevard trees, which, for some fifty years have existed on the street, are being cut down by civic authorities who have a divine sense of the beautiful. One is struck, however, not so much by the changes which are being made on the avenue, as by the spirit of the men at the work. From being humble laboring men, but you can see in them something of the same fire and artistic ecstasy which moves their employers, the City Council. They have the same zeal for reform and progress, the same hatred of that ugliness which has always disfigured Rockland Avenue. They go at their work of cutting down the trees with a kind of wild glitter in their eye, and as they tear the mangled corpses to pieces on the sidewalk, they look like some army in a holy war disposing of the enemy.

It is a fine thing to contemplate. It is cheering to reflect that man has such a fine and unerring instinct for reform and constructive effort. How few men are addicted to the anti-social habit of planting trees which cannot fail to grow up and mar the beauty of a city! How many of them take a sheer, unselfish delight in cutting down trees in the interests of society! Few men have a few years of what are humorously ever planted trees and are entirely innocent on that score, but most men have cut them down. There is comfort in that thought. In the realization that there will always be brave fellows to hew down the ugly growth of nature and dispose of the corpses

LARGER PLAN

BUT IN MERELY removing most of the largest boulevard trees on Rockland Avenue, the crusade for a better city isn't going half far enough. We must also remove Rockland Avenue. It is a mediocrity street, full of curves and twists, and the land bordering on it is hideously irregular. A modern city government should level the whole hill in this district, a really straight line into the sea and then lay out the streets in something like reasonable order.

Let us get away from all these out-of-date contours, these old-fashioned curves and hillsides. Let us lay out a really modern city with all the streets arranged in straight lines, running north and south, like a checker board, or like Calgary, Alberta! Now there is a city, all nice and flat and the streets straight as an arrow and . . . well, we won't go any further into Calgary at the moment. In fact, I won't ever be going into Calgary again at all, I fancy.

As a matter of fact, a group of us who have the welfare of Victoria at heart, have prepared a complete plan for modernizing and beautifying the city and are offering it to the civic authorities free. We expect not only to level down all the ugly hills of Victoria and straighten out all the ghastly curved streets and cut down a few low-growing shrubs, but, of course, to establish a uniform house, perfectly square, in cream stucco, so that every family will have exactly the same sort of habitation.

This will not only have a fine social value in eliminating class consciousness, but will give the city a look of symmetry and rhythm almost unequaled anywhere. There will be a drug store, a service station and a barbecue lunch stand in every third block, and traffic signals, of course, of every corner. We may permit a few low-growing shrubs, but, of course, no trees to hide the beauty of the city. Among other improvements, we propose to tear down the Empress Hotel because of its irregularity of outline and also because those ghastly vines on it are said to harbor bugs and insects. We shall need that space anyway for a subway station. When we have torn down the Parliament Buildings and leveled off their site and cut down the present dank tree growth, we shall use the ground as the site for the splendid head office of the Associated Protective Order of North American Morticians, who will make this their North American headquarters. We are hopeful, when we shall also be able to secure for Victoria the head offices of the American Order of Eagles, Buffaloes, Kangaroos and White Mice.

When we have made Victoria as nearly as we can a perfect replica of Peoria, Ill., and abolished all this outworn nonsense about quaintness and charm, we feel sure that people will pour in here, our streets will swarm with the latest automobiles, every man will be a Buffalo, Kangaroo or White Mouse. All we need now to complete the scheme and make this a veritable paradise are the Dionne Quintuplets. We have not yet given up the hope that Victoria's genius will yet produce some quintuplets of our own and really put the city on the map.

BETRAYAL

A DISTINGUISHED local thinker of radical tendencies approached me at a recent public gathering and, looking very solemn, as if I had already died, said he was sorry to see by my stuff in the newspapers that I had deserted the Cause and had gone over to the Enemy. All the radicals in town, he said, had noted the change in my tune. From being a real, honest revolutionist I had changed into a thoroughgoing reactionary overnight. He indicated that the radicals were pretty sore about this betrayal of the Revolution. This is too bad. From what I could gather, this widespread alarm is based on a recent observation in this column to the effect that capitalism seemed likely to survive after all, and that we probably were in for a few years of what are humorously called good times, with only a few hundred thousand on relief and average wages of around $1,000 a year. This admission, it seems, is treachery to the Cause. Apparently, if you are devoted to the Cause you never admit anything of even temporary good is happening. You never admit the obvious facts.

Thus you find the same ostrich attitude on both wings of society. The extreme reactionary has never admitted that the world's economic system was ever in danger. Now, when the system, by a kind of blind animal instinct, by the strange life force within it, is obviously wallowing out of the deeper depths and will have at least another cycle of life before it stands by and says there isn't any such animal. Not only that, but he resents it if you suggest that there is any such animal. He thinks you have been got at, that you have betrayed him, merely because you have pointed out an obvious fact.

IS CANVASSER
To the Editor:—In last night's issue you gave considerable prominence to a case recently tried by Mr. Justice Robertson. I know of the man to whom the item refers. He is not an employee of the Federal Radio Department and never was. We have no men in the service receiving a salary lower than $100 per month. The man referred to was employed by a supervisor appointed to canvass the city for radio receiving licenses and was paid a commission. Will you be kind enough to give the same prominence to this letter as you gave the erroneous item?

HEALTH ADVICE FOR HEPBURN

Toronto, Nov. 15.—If Premier Hepburn of Ontario lived to be 100, he still would not be able to try all the remedies and cures that have been suggested in the many letters that have been received by him since it was learned he was in ill-health. Suggestions as to diet and recommendations as to certain specialists are included in the suggestions. Some advise a vegetable diet, while others would have Mr. Hepburn eat only carbohydrates at one meal and proteins at another.

You can't know just how good Heinz Ready-to-Serve Soups really are unless you compare them, taste by taste, with other soups. That's why you are urged to make the test suggested in this advertisement. Your own taste will tell you the difference.

Heinz Soups are not condensed. They are complete soups—started and finished in one cooking by master-cooks. You add no milk, cream or water. They require no extra simmering. This means economy of both time and materials. You simply heat Heinz soups in the tin if you like—and serve.

Juices of prime, tender meats and vegetables and fresh, sweet cream, combined with long simmering in small quantities, give Heinz Soups that home-made taste no other method can assure. Every Heinz Soup has the true, individual taste of its ingredients. The range is complete: hearty soups that make a main luncheon dish, soups for the family dinner table or for a formal occasion. Reply Is Made To Communists

C.C.F. Leader Says Attacks
Unfair; Organizer Talks of Gains

Attacks made by Communists on the C.C.F. were "scurrilous and unfair," said Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P. for Victoria, at a meeting in the C.C.F. headquarters, Port Street, yesterday evening.

The C.C.F. house leader showed how the policy of the Communist group was out of line with that of the C.C.F. and declared, "We want no truck or trade with the Communists."

V. R. Midgely, provincial organizer for the C.C.F. in the federal election, discussed the campaign and said the wonderful gains made by the party had made it the premier political factor in the province.

TAX PENALTY DUE SATURDAY

Addition of 1 Per Cent to Be Made to 1935 Levies Not Paid By November 16

The third of the regular penalties applied annually on delinquent city taxes will go into force on Saturday, it was announced by George Okell, city assessor-collector to-day.

The penalty will be 1 per cent. With the former two applied at the beginning of October and the start of this month, this will raise the penalty now charged to 3 per cent.

The final penalty, one of 3 per cent, will be applied on December 3, making up the full penalty of 6 per cent. Although collections have been slow during the last two or three days, an increase in the flow of 1935 tax payments to the city was expected by Mr. Okell as property owners attempted to avoid the extra charge incurred by the penalties still to be applied.

International Mind Needed

Dr. W. J. Sipprell Tells Rotarians of Three Steps to World Outlook

The necessity in the present age of reaching out across borders and developing the international mind was placed before members of the Rotary Club yesterday by Rev. W. J. Sipprell, D.D., former pastor of Metropolitan United Church and world traveler.

The service clubs, by their international character, occupied a unique position for the development of the world outlook, he said. Dr. Sipprell quoted three essential steps towards the acquisition of the international mind.

First, it was essential to realize the interdependence of men and nations in all spheres, economic, social, industrial, commercial and religious. No man and no nation could any longer live in a vacuum of isolation. "If we want service, we must serve," said Dr. Sipprell. The highway across international boundaries, both physical and intellectual, had to lead in both directions.

WILL TO WORK
The second step towards the development of the international mind was the will to work.

"The mind is the man," he said. "The value of human personality is judged by the achievements not of his hands, but of his mind."

Mental equipment was not given to men at their birth; it was largely brought by an act of will, first on the part of their teachers, later of themselves.

He warned against mental inertia, which was worse than physical inertia. There were many hobs to be found, said Dr. Sipprell, who wandered about begging the thoughts of other men.

Every man had spare time which he could devote towards the development of an international consciousness.

UNDERSTANDING
The third step, and perhaps the most important, was to endeavor in all ways to get the point of view of other men and of other nations.

The majority of the troubles of the world, said Dr. Sipprell, were due to misunderstanding. He quoted the proverb, "To know all is to forgive all."

By attempting to view every question from the point of view of the other man, it was possible to clarify and solve many international problems.

Victoria, as a seaport and a point of contact with many parts of the world, was afforded extraordinary chances towards the study of the point of view of other nationalities.

Insurance Plan Will Not Hurt Hospitals

Institutions Will Not Suffer Financially Under Proposed State Health Bill For British Columbia, Government Adviser Tells Convention Delegates

If the present draft bill on health insurance is adopted by the provincial government, British Columbia hospitals will be no worse off financially than they are at the present, Dr. Allen Peebles, chairman of the hearings committee on the bill, assured delegates to the eighteenth annual convention of the provincial hospitals' association in the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon.

The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of health insurance, and the delegates heard the views of the government, the hospitals and labor expressed ably by Dr. Peebles, J. M. Coady, chairman of the committee appointed by the association to inquire into the question, and Percy R. Bengough, first vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

While bound over to secrecy regarding the results of the hearings committee sessions, and as to the means which the government proposed for financing health insurance, Dr. Peebles' statement was an encouraging note for the delegates and the first assurance they have had that hospitals will not suffer financially from health insurance in British Columbia.

GOVERNMENT RESPONSIBILITY

Dr. Peebles was not in a position to state whether the government proposed maintenance of hospital grants if the bill were adopted, but he reminded his audience that in considering the insurance they must not forget the responsibility of the provincial and municipal governments.

"The hospitals have a vital stake in the proposed state health insurance act," Dr. Peebles said.

The hearings committee on the draft bill recently presented to Dr. Weir a report on the basis of which revisions were being made.

"The hospitals cannot possibly be worse off under health insurance than they are now and to put it more positively they will be better off," Dr. Peebles said.

There were two basic problems in the hospitals' brief, namely increased hospitalization and finances.

An increase of 75 per cent in hospitalization as had been suggested was not possible with the statistics which he had at hand, Dr. Peebles said.

In 1933 and 1934 the average hospitalization was 1,258 hospital days per 1,000 persons, excluding T.B., nervous and mental diseases.

If the figure was accepted there would be an increase of 8 per cent in hospitalization for the section of the population covered.

By allowing for an increase in hospitalization days up to 1,500, total hospital days for the province would be 47,600, which was only 7 per cent above the 1934 total.

NOT BIG INCREASE

The increased load on hospitals would not be nearly as great as some have assumed, Dr. Peebles said.

Final responsibility for the support of the hospitals must remain with provincial and municipal governments, he said, as it was the suggested revenue would be sufficient to cover total costs of hospital operation.

There would be outside sources of revenue other than from insurance, Dr. Peebles said, including the Dominion Government, the Workmen's Compensation Board, and that class of patient which received more than ward service and those who were confined longer than the three weeks allowed by the act.

The ultimate responsibility of the provincial and municipal governments must not be forgotten, he said.

"It is my conviction you will appreciate that this legislation will make our population a healthier and happier population," he concluded.

LABOR'S SUPPORT

Mr. Bengough said the union movement had been working for some form of health insurance for many years. In all countries where compulsory insurance had been adopted it had proved beneficial and in most countries there had been applications for its extension every year.

Since 1921 legislative committees of the Trades and Labor Congress had made annual applications for health insurance to every provincial government in Canada, Mr. Bengough said. He reviewed the sickness and benefit schemes introduced by many fraternal and labor bodies throughout the Dominion. There were nineteen of eighty-three international unions in Canada which provided sickness and accident benefits, and these disbursed about $2,500,000 annually.

Organized labor was in favor of health insurance because it offered the same protection as industrial insurance gave against industrial hazards, he said.

Arguments against the scheme, he said, were the same as those used against workmen's compensation before its introduction, also recom-

Since compensation had been instituted these arguments were not held.

A system of health insurance must operate in conjunction with a system of unemployment insurance, he continued. He noted that many commissions in different Canadian provinces had recommended adoption of health insurance schemes after exhaustive inquiries into them.

ANTICIPATE EARLY MOVE

Organized labor hoped that the approaching session in British Columbia would see the adoption of state health insurance, Mr. Bengough said.

He reviewed criticisms of the proposed legislation which the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council had made referring particularly to the exemption of those earning $200 a month or more, whom, the trades men thought, were best able to pay for the insurance.

Labor believed the 3 per cent collection on wages proposed was rather high and could be reduced if those best able to pay were included. Extension of the proposed twenty-one-day service was also recommended.

While the $10 a week cash benefit was a small amount, labor approved this because any amount, no matter how small, helped relieve the financial worry accompanying illness.

A commission consisting of three, instead of five, was also recommended. Labor proposed the chairman should be named by the government while the employer and employees should each be represented. This plan would also serve to reduce the overhead.

Labor was against the proposal for an appeal board as outlined in the act.

In the administration of the Compensation Act it had not been found necessary to advocate any other means of appeal than through the board set up by the act which administered the compensation.

In presenting the committee's report, Mr. Coady thanked Dr. Peebles for his frank discussion with the committee on the draft bill.

NOT ENOUGH REVENUE

The committee was convinced the draft bill did not provide sufficient revenue for the hospitals.

State health insurance as a policy was not opposed by the association, but its interest was the safeguarding of the hospitals.

It was pointed out that in 1933 in British Columbia, there were 1,400 hospital days' treatment for every 1,000 population, and under state health insurance it could be reasonably expected this would increase by 8 per cent and become 1,504 hospital days' treatment for every 1,000 population.

The scheme proposed $1,575,000 to cover the cost of hospitalization for 500,000 persons coming under the act, which represented 770,000 hospital days. This meant the hospitals were to receive $2.04 per hospital day. The per capita cost over the period from 1929 to 1933 was $3.82. In 1933 the per capita cost was $3.20 and there was no hope of reducing it further.

On this basis there was a revenue deficit of $1,600,000, which the hospitals were expected to collect from the 200,000 persons earning over $200 a month, who did not come within the scope of the act.

"Any system of State Health Insurance must be predicated upon this, that the present operating costs of hospitals are not likely to be reduced, and that this cost must be provided as heretofore; and further, that under any plan of health insurance, a sufficient amount must be set aside to provide for the hospitalization of those coming under the scheme. Otherwise, the deficiency must be made up as heretofore from the provincial treasury and from the municipalities," he said.

"If this scheme comes into operation as outlined in the memorandum, what are the sources of revenue available for the hospitals? For the 500,000 coming under the scheme there is $1,575,000 as stated. In addition to that, there is the monies receivable from the Workmen's Compensation Board, probably $140,000. From the Dominion Government for the hospital care of seamen and Indians, probably $125,000; then from the 200,000 not coming under the scheme also, additional fees for better than ward service, and some revenue from those remaining in the hospital longer than thirteen weeks, but the revenue from all of these sources is only a small part of the additional amount required to make up the annual operating costs of the hospitals. The municipal and provincial grants must, it seems to us, be continued."

There are other services which are quite expensive in hospital administration; more particularly the X-ray, operating room charges, including anaesthetics and physiotherapy. Under a plan of state health insurance we can reasonably expect a very decided increase in demand for these services. We feel that if the amount allowed by the commission for hospital services is based upon public ward rate only, then provision must be made for compensation to the hospital for these additional services, or the public ward rate must be a generous one.

"If the hospitals, as employers of labor, are required to pay 2 per cent of their payroll as other employers of labor, that is going to add to the cost of operating."

C. McHardy, of Nelson, presented a brief from the businessman's viewpoint on health insurance, which advocated a delay in introducing the measure until the Dominion Government report was made known. Mr. McHardy thought the scheme should be instituted on a national basis.

The 3 per cent contribution for employees was too high, he continued. The brief was generally opposed to health insurance.

MARKET NOTES

A carload of bananas arrived at the Outer Wharf to-day.

A carload of oranges was also unloaded off the same boat. This will be the last Valencia or the season. The next shipment of oranges will be of the navel variety. The first carload of these is expected on November 25.

The first Newton apples of the season were received on wholesale row on Saturday.

Butter went up 1c a pound yesterday.

Following the rise of B grade or storage eggs to 24c a dozen wholesale, the egg market continues firm with no change in price in grade A classes.

California lettuce is on the market already. The first carload shipment of this produce is expected on the first of the week. This will be two months earlier than last year.

Several cars of Ashcroft and Kamloops potatoes have arrived in the city this week, and also a number of carloads of onions. The price on Ashcroft Netted Gems has risen. The advance of 10c a sack was effective yesterday.

Onions have also gone up 15c a sack in the Okanagan, but wholesalers report no change here.

There are approximately 125,000 dead accounts in American savings banks to-day. They are believed to be secret deposits of misers and gangsters.

City Temple Y.P.S. Visited Plants

The Victoria City Temple Young People's Society met for the regular weekly meeting Tuesday with twenty-four members and eight visitors present. They spent a novel educational and very enjoyable evening, when, through the kindness of the management of the Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd., and the Northwestern Creameries, they were taken on a visit through their respective plants.

Meeting at the City Temple, they drove first to the Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd., where Mr. W. Mader conducted them through the plant, explaining the various processes required to convert the raw material into the well-known finished products turned out by this company.

They then drove to the Northwestern Creamery, where, before commencing their trip through the plant, each member was presented with a Jersey milk share, with the compliments of Mr. Norton, and then shown how the raw milk is tested, pasteurized and separated to produce the many finished milk products produced by this well-known firm.

All members are urged to attend next Tuesday's meeting. A good programme is arranged by Enid Coles which will commence at 8 o'clock.

The BLUE DOOR

By Rachel Mack © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

"I'm glad she's gone for sure," she told Elaine. "Good riddance of bad rubbish! When I think of her foolin' me like she did for days and days and maybe laughin' up her sleeve at me—" She paused and corrected herself thoughtfully. "No, she wouldn't laugh up her sleeve at anybody. She had a kind heart, that girl. Always wantin' to help—"

Elaine shrugged. "Let's get my bags upstairs, Penny. Then see about getting another servant. You won't find me helpful at all." Penny protested. "Another servant? Mercy no, Miss Elaine. I'm strong as an ox. It would rattle me to have another servant under foot."

"Oh, well," said Elaine crossly, "if you won't—" They got the bags upstairs and then hung up the dresses and put the lingerie and shoes and hats and innumerable toilet articles into suitable drawers. While Penny went about her business in the house (some of it more secret than Elaine dreamed), the girl busied herself in a characteristic way.

grandfather had chosen that color because of a villa with a blue door in Italy, high on a mountain side, where he and his wife had spent their honeymoon.

"But why does Penny keep it so vivid now?" Elaine asked herself, amused. "Heaven knows the rest of the house doesn't get any attention. The glass is broken in the conservatory. The porch is sagging. The yard looks like a jungle. Why does she concentrate on the front door?"

She was never to know the reason. That secret was Bertha's own. Once she had gone to see "her boy" in the asylum. It was only a week or two after his confinement there and she found him so despairing and rebellious and sullen that no sensible words came from his twisted lips.

He had said, "I'm going to run away from this place, old girl. See if I don't. Keep the front door painted blue, will you, so I'll know the old hunter place when I see it!" Bertha had whispered fearfully, "When will you come, Mr. Duncan?" "Oh, some quarter moon," he had answered carelessly. "That's always been my lucky sign."

They never let her see him again. When she tried, they told her very firmly that Mr. Deal thought it was best for Mr. Hunter not to be disturbed. So Bertha Gibbs went back to Worthington, to the empty old house there, and set herself the task of keeping it intact against his coming. Her children mind seized on these two remarks concerning the blue door and the quarter moon, and out of them she evolved her ritual of painting the door a brilliant blue every four weeks. It was her own strange secret.

As soon as Elaine was out of the house Bertha went up to the third floor again. It was her fourth trip. Each time she had found Duncan Hunter sleeping. Now he was coming awake, opening his eyes and looking at her. "How about some food?" he asked, smiling.

"It's almost supper time," Bertha nodded. "You've slept all day!" He laughed and she bent and touched his shoulder warningly. "Remember, there's a girl in the house, Mr. Duncan."

"I know," he nodded. "A fine girl. Bertha stared. This was news. Then she remembered something. "But not that one, Mr. Duncan. She went away."

"Went away?" exclaimed Duncan Hunter. "But of course. I remember now. She told me she was leaving to-day. Well, I'm sorry. A fine girl. I'll tell you after dinner what she's persuaded me to do. Quite a girl. Lots of pluck—"

"But another one's here," old Bertha said, prodding him out of his reverie. "Your niece, Elaine Chalmers."

"Ah!" he said. "Another one! Again he laughed loudly and normally. "What is this house, Bertha? A young ladies' seminary?"

Bertha was upset at his levity. She was even more upset when he announced, "I'm through hiding, Bertha. To-night I'll sit at my own table. Let my niece like it or not."

"But the Deals are your enemies, Mr. Duncan," she reminded him. "Don't do it! Don't do it!"

NOTED PIANIST IS TRAVELED

Jan Cherniavsky, Coming
Here Nov. 20, Has Toured
2,000,000 Miles

Musical circles all over the world are familiar with the names of that remarkable trio of violinist, cellist and pianist—Leo, Mischel and Jan Cherniavsky. Having travelled over 2,000,000 miles in twenty-eight different countries, every tour—more successful than its predecessor—has appreciably enriched the accumulated store of their musical attainment and intellectual achievement.

The great capitals of Europe have acclaimed them time and again. Many thrilling experiences have come their way. Many unusual sights and scenes have been woven into the tapestry of their travels. Familiar with the blinding sun of Bulawayo and the thunderous voice of Victoria Falls, Jan Cherniavsky, the noted pianist of this notable group, who appears in recital at Empress Hotel on November 20, tells of lions basking in the glaring heat on the road from the nearest railway station to the Victoria Falls Hotel. With vivid word and rhythmic tone he tells of the huge leopard shot one night by the manager through a bedroom window of the hotel.

With reminiscent enthusiasm the master hands of this master musician tick off jungle memories of tigers, cheetahs, monkeys, giraffes and sportive hippopotami on the Zambesi with the same flamboyant gesture that tosses sparkling rivulets of sound down the keyboard in flawless mastery and technical triumph.

Jan Cherniavsky has reached the front ranks in the music world's accredited great in the most universal application of what really constitutes musical greatness. Contact with many places and many peoples has only added to the unaffected sincerity and compelling charm which pervade both the personality and performance of this world-famous artist.

AUTHORS MARK BOOK WEEK

H. H. Smith Gives Address on Outstanding Canadian Poetry

Canadian Book Week drew an unusually large and interested audience to the Victoria and Island Branch Canadian Authors' Association meeting last evening. Miss M. Eugene Perry presided and gave a concise outline of the origin and utility of the Canadian Book Week and announced several publications by members of the local branch. "A Clearing in the West," by Nellie L. McClung; "Harvest of Dreams," by Frances Ebbes-Canavan; Lewis Wharton's fine translation of the complete poems of Francois Villon, and the local poetry group's Year Book for 1935.

Mrs. Doris Ferne, convener of the poetry group, spoke upon the work of her group of poets, whose efforts have been preserved in the Year Book, and Mr. Alan Crawley and Mr. Donald Fraser were thanked for their help with its production.

Miss Ann Marriott gave a most helpful craft talk on "Some Phases of Short Story Writing."

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ferne, who have been for some time engaged in the writing of a musical comedy, "Love and Money," gave three selections from this tenuous opera. Mr. Ferne singing, with Mrs. Ferne at the piano, two charming lyrics and a rollicking song of the sea.

The Book Week programme was brought to a close by H. H. Smith, principal of Victoria High School, who gave a compelling address on "Canadian Poetry," in which he allowed the poets to speak for themselves through the medium of his own interpretation of their finest poems which he read with deep appreciation and feeling.

"Real poetry will bear the time test," said Mr. Smith, and in Canadian literature he predicted this quality of beauty and endurance in the work of such poets as Charles Sangster, Thomas D'Arcy McGee, Louis Henri Frechette, Duncan Scott, Bliss Carman and Marjorie Pickthall.

The speaker chose a number of the outstanding poems of each of these noted writers, to illustrate their chief characteristics. Mr. Smith's address was received with marked appreciation.

Reference was made to the very successful pageant "Let's Be Friends," beautifully produced by Ethel Reece Burns recently, and the work of Dorothy L. Crighton, a member of Victoria and Islands Branch.

The annual short story competition for young writers between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one was announced again for this year. Rules and competitions governing this contest have already appeared in the daily press.

VICTORIA WEST UNITED Y.P.S. The weekly meeting of the Victoria West United Y.P.S. opened with community singing which was much enjoyed by the young people. The devotional period followed.

Plans are in progress for a play for the drama festival which will be held in January. On December 10 a two-hour moving picture will be shown by Douglas Finlay, presenting three features and two comedies.

Rev. W. R. Brown spoke a few words. The guest speaker for the evening was Rev. J. H. Warr who gave a very enjoyable talk based on "Peace Versus War." Mr. Warr was thanked by the president on behalf of the young people.

SAY CHANGES NOT NEEDED

The Real Estate Board sees no need for a change in the police commission or the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. Members of the board at their luncheon meeting at Spencer's yesterday decided to send a letter to the City Council for reading at the Monday night meeting of the council asking for no change.

James Forman, moving the motion, praised both the present administration of police affairs and the publicity bureau. He said he was sure business men of Victoria wanted neither body tampered with at the present time.

F. E. Winslow seconded the motion and it passed unanimously.

Mayor Leeming spoke briefly for the publicity bureau. He said the value of the tourist trade to Victoria this year was estimated at between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000.

TO HOLD REUNION

Members of the 108th Battalion will hold a reunion dinner at Spencer's dining room, Broad Street entrance, at 7 o'clock to-morrow evening.

Major Spurgeon will preside, and an excellent programme has been arranged.

The committee in charge of the affair is hoping for a record attendance. All those attending are requested to wear a poppy. Tickets can be obtained from F. Edwards, Morris's Cigar Store.

ST. ANDREW'S BALL IS SET

Scottish Dances Will Be Presented at Empress on November 29

The skill of the bagpipers will be heard and the famous "Reel of Tulloch" and "Seann Truibhas" will be danced at the second annual St. Andrew's ball to be held in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel on Friday evening, November 29.

It will be a typical Scotch gathering with the kilts, sporrans and Glengarry in evidence. The eighties and foursome reels so popular with the Scotch folk will be special features, and will be given the maximum of enjoyment to the large crowd of guests who are expected to attend the ball.

The ball is being held under the sponsorship of the St. Andrew's Scottish Regiment and one large party of forty from the military organization has reserved a table for the dance.

The Empress dance orchestra, directed by William F. McKie, will supply the music for dancing from 8 to 1, and pipers in full uniform will play for the special numbers.

The ball, was inaugurated here on St. Andrew's Day last year and proved to be very popular. This year it is expected to go over bigger than ever.

EXCELLENT RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRH, DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrh of the Ear, Head Noises or ordinary Catarrh, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have seen the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment. Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious in sufferers.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Eucalypti (Double strength). Take this home and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged eustachian tubes, breathing becomes difficult, and in this way sets inflammation in the eustachian tubes is directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is in hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

SUNDAY TEA

Following a week of clever international projects the Y.W.C.A. clubs and classes are planning to meet together on Sunday, November 17, at 4 o'clock for the tea hour. The theme of the programme will be "World Fellowship," which is being arranged by the Senior Business Girls' Club, Miss Winnifred Elliott, president, presiding.

Mrs. D. M. Duncan, principal of St. Margaret's School, will give a short talk, and Mrs. D. B. Keir of the girls' department committee will be the soloist. Miss Maquinn Daniels will be the pianist. Tea will be served.

The clubs extend an invitation to any girls who would enjoy with them this interesting fellowship hour.

WEEK OF WORLD FELLOWSHIP

During this week, November 18 to 24, the World's Y.W.C.A. in fifty-two different countries, are holding their annual observance of the week of Prayer and World Fellowship. "Ambassadors for Christ" is the general theme of study, suggested by the World's Council in Geneva, Switzerland, and under this subject a challenging message has been sent to all countries from the world's president, Miss Van Ach Van Wyck, of Holland.

The increasing difficulty and instability of world conditions should make an ever-increasing demand upon the reality of world fellowship within the association—its concrete effect upon the life of its own members, and their impact in the community, both local and international. A world fellowship that is rooted in the spiritual reality of fellowship with God, and with one another, a fellowship that is sharing together in prayer and work must grow to be a world fellowship that is dynamic and effective.

The various groups of the local association are featuring special world fellowship programmes during this week.

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

The celebration of the eightieth birthday of the Y.W.C.A. in Great Britain is an outstanding event of this year. It is, indeed, the celebration of the birth of the Y.W.C.A. in the world as the movement was started in London, England. This eightieth birthday celebration took place in Albert Hall, London, on November 9, and Her Majesty the Queen was present on that occasion. Invitations were extended to every National Association, and Canada was well represented among the other nations.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MRS. ELDRED OUTLINES MENUS FOR BABY'S SIMPLE MEALS

When the baby has reached the advanced age of one year, he should be ready, in most cases, for but three meals a day. These may be served at 7 in the morning, 11.30 to 12 at noon and 5.30 to 6 at night. The choice of hours depends largely upon the meal hours of baby's own family.

During the first year the baby was made the acquaintance of a number of vegetables, fruits, and all kinds of cereals. In addition the mother has cautiously tried out scraped meat, white meat of chicken and fish, perhaps thick vegetable soups with some small pieces of meat, and cottage cheese. Pureed fruits, all kinds of milk puddings and gelatin make up the simple desserts for the day.

SIMPLE DIRECTIONS

Our leaflet, "Feeding From Twelve to Eighteen Months," offers simple directions for three mothers who want to give a definite selection of foods for the various meals and the following suggestions may prove helpful, also. Send a self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of the week.

Breakfasts each day of the week—this is of course for the well baby past one year—may consist of one or two ounces of fruit juice (orange, tomato or pineapple), and one-fourth to one-half cup of a pre-cooked cereal prepared for babies, or one of the home cooked cereals such as fine or coarse wheat preparations, whole barley or brown rice.

On the cereal may be served part of the cup of milk, and the rest of it given to drink; or baby may eat his cereal without milk and then drink a cup afterwards.

BABY'S LUNCH

Some pleasing combinations are:

1. One tablespoon or more of cod-died or scrambled egg; 2. tablespoons of baked potato; 2. tablespoons of carrot (steamed or mashed); 2. tablespoons of junket; cup of milk.
2. One tablespoon of ground or scraped meat (lamb or beef or liver); 2. tablespoons of boiled rice; 2. tablespoons of spinach; 2. tablespoons of tomato gelatin; a glass of milk.
3. One-half cup of vegetable stew (made with meat); a cracker; one-half cup of junket; a cup of milk.
4. One tablespoon of cottage cheese; two tablespoons of stewed tomatoes; one-half ripe, mashed banana; cup of milk.
5. One tablespoon of ground liver; 2. tablespoons of strained cauliflower; 1. tablespoon of baked potato; 2. tablespoons of rice pudding; milk to drink.

Supper each day will consist of cereal as in the morning, 2. tablespoons of sliced peach, pear, prune or apricot and a cupful of milk to drink. A buttered cracker or a piece of sweet-bread can be served with any of these meals.

Victoria United and Nanaimo In Soccer Clash To-morrow

THE SPORTS MIRROR Strong Elevens Will Battle At Athletic Park

Kick-off Set For 2.30 o'clock; Teams Tied in Inter-city Loop Standing

LARGE CROWD IS EXPECTED

Tied with Nanaimo City for last place in the Inter-city Soccer League standings, Victoria United will make a determined stand against the up-island eleven in the football feature to be presented at the Athletic Park to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

W. J. Cull will be the referee. Providing the weatherman behaves himself the fixture should draw the largest crowd so far this season.

With a dry, fast field the Victoria club, with an eleven composed of young, speedy performers, should have an edge over the boys from the Coal City. It is granted the Nanaimo club, runners-up for the Dominion championship late last spring, packs more experience on their line-up, but the Victoria squad with lots of speed and youth is capable of holding its own providing the up-islanders are not allowed to settle down to their deadly slow-passing style of game.

EDMUNDS IS SKIPPER

Nanaimo, under the captaincy of the veteran Ed Edmunds, one of the greatest fullbacks ever developed in British Columbia, will take the field with their regular eleven. Inkerter will be between the sticks with Edmunds partnering Gavin on the back line. The halfbacks line will be composed of West, Knight, and Bullock, with McGregor as a possible starter on the intermediate rank.

On the forward line will be Thompson, Platt, Waugh, Grey, Sandland and one other.

Victoria will have a strong club for the match. Gordie Chambers will be in his regular position in goal with Sammy Eiler and Freddy Gibbons in front of him. On the halfback line will be Ronnie Williams, Roy Barnes and Bill Boyd. The forward line will be Gordie Bell, Scotty Stewart, Freddy Price, Noel Morgan and George Payne. The substitutes will be Joe Watt, Harry Storey and Dick Miller. The Victoria team will be under the management of Ed Whyte.

The inter-city league standing at the time of the match will be as follows: Victoria United, first place with seven points in six matches. The Vancouver Rangers are second with five points and North Shore and St. Saviours tied for third with four points each.

Cowan, like the wise fellow he is, is studying as a masseur in order to fit himself for a job as trainer or coach when his playing days are over. Hull City, looking round for players to strengthen their defence, have signed on Alex. Sharp, a centre-half, from Blackburn Rovers at a fee stated to be £1,000. A typical Scottish craftsman, Sharp joined Blackburn less than a year ago from East Fife. He was immediately put into Hull's league team, but the side went down to Doncaster on their own soil.

Judging by the way Aston Villa are going on at present they will lose their record of never having played in any but first division football. The famous old Birmingham Club is passing through a very lean period. The playing of the club to date suggests that something is radically wrong somewhere. It cannot be with the playing strength. One of the troubles seems to be the failure of James Allen to settle down at centre-half.

Another, possibly the worst of the troubles, is the lack of a "strong mind" to lead the forwards; someone like Billy Walker, Joe Bache, Fred Wheldon, or Denny Hodggett to give them a guiding hand. Something will have to be done, and done quickly. It would be a football tragedy if the Villa, who were the original members of the football league, winners of the Football Association Cup six times and league champions on six occasions, were to find themselves relegated at the end of the season. A wave of sympathy with the Villa directors in the plight of the club, at the bottom in the first division, is growing among the senior section of the club's supporters.

The goal-scoring record of the famous old English player, Steve Bloomer, who netted 353 goals in league matches, has been broken. James McGorrie recently carried his tally of goals in league matches to 353. McGorrie, who was born in Glasgow and is the owner of a cinema, has obtained more than 400 goals in league and cup matches. He has also a number of goals to his credit in international matches.

Bloomer, who played for Derby County, and retired in 1914, scored twenty-eight times in international matches but there is no complete record of his scoring feats in cup-ties. Perhaps it is hardly fair to compare McGorrie's record with that of Bloomer's for he has always been a centre-forward whereas Bloomer was an inside forward. McGorrie, who once scored eight goals in a Scottish League match against Dunfermline, hopes to score 400 league goals before he retires.

Hugh Ferguson, who scored the goal which won Cardiff City the cup at Arsenal's expense in 1927, claims to have beaten all the scores with 363 goals. His figure is probably correct, but many of the goals were shot by Ferguson in war-time Scottish football, and, officially, do not count.

J. J. White Heads Ardmore Golf Club

J. J. White was elected president of the Ardmore Golf Club at the annual general meeting held on Wednesday. Other officers named were: Vice-president, G. F. Fowell; captain, P. S. McNeill; vice-captain, J. C. Anderson; general committee, Messrs. Gibson, Rockford, Bastin, Urquhart, Baker, Anderson and Silson.

Wilfred Silson was reappointed secretary-treasurer.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

Strange as it seems, a ship at sea was actually challenged, boarded and captured as a prize ship by a Zeppelin during the World War. The ship, a Norwegian sailing vessel, the "Royal," was overtaken by the Zeppelin L-23 flying low. The dirigible dropped a bomb in front of the vessel and ordered it to heave to. The ship's commander, knowing that his ship was at the mercy of the Zeppelin, obeyed. Then the airship landed on the water, placed a prize crew aboard the "Royal" and sailed her to the haven as a captive ship.

Chlorine is a green-yellow gas of a disagreeable odor and extremely poisonous when inhaled in any considerable amount. It came to be well known as a deadly weapon of war during the World War when opposing armies released it to be carried by the wind over enemy lines.

Yet we could not live without chlorine—for that gas, combined with the metallic sodium, is common table salt, or sodium chloride. Salt is a prime necessity of the diet. Chlorine is also used in great quantities to purify water. Many cities have chlorinating plants where a little chlorine is added to the domestic water supply as a purifying agent. Chlorine has also been used experimentally as a remedy for common colds, bronchitis and similar ailments.

There is rain every day, and almost every hour of every day, somewhere on the island of Dominica in the West Indies. Moisture is carried over the island by warm trade winds and then precipitated as rain when the winds strike cold air rising from the mountains.

Big Grid Battles On Eastern Front

Shuttle Tourney Opens Wednesday

Hugo Raymond, president of the Victoria Garrison Badminton Club, announced yesterday evening that members will open play in the annual championship tournament, Wednesday evening next, at the Bay Street Armories.

Five open events are on the programme, with Ross Hocking and Miss Florence Oates, holders of the men's and women's singles titles respectively, defending their crowns.

Entries will be accepted at the club or may be left with Secretary Penny Diespecker, 1110 Broad Street, any time up to 6 o'clock Monday evening.

INDOOR RANGE TO BE OPENED

Victoria Archers Plan to Use Winter Range in Near Future

Owing to the small attendance, the Victoria Archers Club at a meeting held yesterday evening failed to come to a decision in regard to the opening of its indoor winter range in the basement of the Strathcona Hotel. The members hope to come to a settlement on the question in the near future.

It was pointed out that many persons are holding themselves back from joining the organization, because they think that the obtaining of the gear and shooting tackle is expensive. The club, however, wishes to make clear that all novices will be coached in the art of making the equipment, and thus cutting down expenses considerably.

Tentative plans were made for taking part in the international shoot, and it is hoped that this will be arranged some time in the near future.

H. F. Woodley, Los Angeles, who is recognized as one of the best archers on the Pacific Coast, and who has donated a beautiful silver mounted stag as a challenge trophy for the largest buck deer bagged yearly by a member of the club, with a bow and arrow, has been a great aid to the local club. Woodley keeps the Victoria enthusiasts posted on all the latest archery activities on the Coast.

The membership of the club now totals thirty-seven, and it is the hope that this will be greatly increased.

Hamilton Tigers, Sarnia Imperials, Toronto Argos and Toronto Varsity All Engage in Important Duels To-morrow

By ELMER DULMAGE

The fading Toronto Argonauts, Sarnia's gallant, unbowed but crippled Imperials and the fleet and fiery University of Toronto Blues will answer the call to-morrow to win their titles over again. Football is getting like that. You prove how good you are, and then you prove it again.

Argos, machine-like in attack, mowed down the Big Four opposition without a loss in six grueling games. They looked great. Then Hamilton Tigers joined the Scullers with a defeat and Ottawa Rough Riders caught the potential champions off balance the following week and administered another.

Perhaps Lew Hayman's team is going to win the Big Four championship anyway, but they've got to prove all over again that there isn't a better team in the vicinity. They play the Rough Riders to-morrow in Ottawa while Tigers entertain Montreal Wheelers. It will be a playoff if the Tigers and Scullers both win.

A Sarnia team, getting along pretty well without Normie Perry, Alex Hayes and Bob Molloy, twice defeated Balm Beach in the O.R.F.U. schedule and that earned the Imperials a two-game playoff series with the Beaches. The record shows Balm Beach the inexperienced Hamilton Cubs twice to qualify for the honor of playing Sarnia again.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

It is something like that in the collegiate circuit, too. Warren Stevens' Toronto brigade finished the schedule undefeated. To-morrow they must gamble everything in sixty minutes of football against a queen's team that managed to get one tie with the Blues and lost decisions to Toronto and McGill.

The programme is the most attractive football has offered any fall in the east. It involves all the contenders for eastern honors, notably Argos, Tigers, Sarnia and U. of T. It is a phantasmic drama, particularly at Ottawa, where the Rough Riders, without a chance to finish first themselves, plan to throw Argos out of the running.

After to-morrow's intercollegiate game, the winning team will probably decide at once whether to continue in the Canadian playdowns. Queen's is believed ready to go on and the idea is making headway on the Toronto campus that the Blues are powerful enough to make a serious bid for the national championship.

Sarnia's mighty titlists are expected to build-up a steable lead over Balm Beach, but Argos, shaken loose from any overconfidence, will be favored to beat the Rough Riders this time and qualify for a playoff against Hamilton. The Tigers likewise will be ordered to upset Montreal. Big Four competition is so tough, however, that nothing is certain.

Toronto is given the nod to win the intercollegiate championship.

Low Scoring Lone Goal Gives Toronto Win Over New York Rangers

Buzz Boll Gets Counter to Spoil Opening For 15,000 at Madison Square

Chicago-Detroit In Scoreless Tie

By A. E. FULFORD

It may be because forwards are passing clumsily and shooting wide, but it is a fact the rearguard forces—the defences and the goalies—are providing the finished exhibitions at this early stage of the National Hockey League season.

Four teams played 130 minutes of hockey yesterday evening and only one goal was scored—Buzz Boll's marker that gave Toronto Leafs a 1 to 0 decision over New York Rangers in the Madison Square Garden opening.

With young Mike Karakas tending goal like a veteran, Chicago Black Hawks held Detroit Red Wings to a scoreless tie, the second no-decision effort for Jack Adams' team in the two games they have played.

Yesterday evening's low scoring was consistent with other games played since the schedule opened a week ago, apart from the New York American-Toronto 5 to 3 tie at Toronto last Saturday. The other five games have produced only ten goals. Three of the week's six contests have been ties.

FINE RECORD
The scoreless affair at Detroit was a personal triumph for young Karakas, former American Association goalie who broke into the N.H.L. in the opening game last Thursday. Subbing for Lorne Chabot, out with a knee injury, Karakas in his first 130 minutes of big time hockey has allowed only one goal, the marker Americans got when Hawks defeated them 3 to 1 in the opener.

Yesterday evening he kicked out twenty-six hard drives, while Normie Smith, in Detroit's nets, handled twenty-eight.

Even a Toronto victory failed to spot the brilliant opening 15,000 persons witnessed at New York. Rangers were surprisingly good to hold Leafs to such a close score, considering they lacked two of their best defence men, holdout Earl Selbert and injured Harold Starr.

It was typical Ranger-Leaf hockey, fast and sometimes rough, but lacked the brilliant passing the teams usually show.

Red Horner, the league's bad man by a wide margin last season, started piling up a new penalty record by getting himself two minors and a misconduct.

Murray Murdoch, durable Ranger forward, ran his consecutive game record to 331 despite an injury suffered Tuesday in Montreal. He took his regular place in the New York line-up and played his full share of the game, keeping Charlie Conacher, Leafs scoring ace, from running wild.

Teams follow:
Rangers—Kerr, Heller, Johnson, Boucher, W. Cook, F. Cook; subs, Dillon, Murdoch, Keeling, Patrick, Brydson, Connolly, Mason and Ayres.

Toronto—Hainsworth, Blair, Horner, Primeau, Conacher, H. Jackson; subs, Thomas, Finnigan, Bell, Kelly, Metz, A. Jackson, Hollett, Clancy, Day.

First period—No score. Penalties, Horner, F. Cook.

Second period—No score. Penalties, Bell, Hollett, Horner (minor and ten minutes, misconduct).

Third period—1. Toronto, Boll (Thoms), 10:44. Penalties, Ayres, Conacher, Connolly, Keeling.

Shots stopped: Hainsworth 10, 12, 7-29. Kerr 10, 14, 7-31.

Teams follow:
Chicago—Karakas, Levinsky, Wiebe, Morner, Marsh, Gottlieb; subs, Coulter, Ouellette, McPayden, Romnes, Cook, Trudell, Locking, Thompson, Burke.

Detroit—Smith, Goodfellow, Bowman, Barry, Aurie, Lewis; subs, Young, McDonald, Howe, Sorrell, Duguid, Kites, Brunet, Kelly.

Officials—Clarence Bush and A. G. Smith.

First period—No score. Penalties, Coulter 2.

Second period—No score. Penalties, Wiebe, Howe, Burke.

Third period—No score. Penalty, Levinsky.

Overtime period—No score. Penalties, Sorrell, Morner, Levinsky.

NOTRE DAME GRID STAR IN HOSPITAL

While the victory over Ohio State was sweet, it was costly to the great football machine of Notre Dame, for Andy Pilney, halfback star, who ran and passed his team to a sensational win in the last two minutes, suffered a pulled tendon and slight hemorrhage and may be out for the rest of the season. Pilney is shown in his hospital cot with his mother beside him.

MAT CARD TO-MORROW

Four Good Heavyweights to Appear on Show at Tiliacum Gym

To-morrow evening's heavy-weight wrestling card to be presented at the Tiliacum gym by promoter Fred Richardson will feature in the eighteen ten-minute round main event, Ivan Mainangoff, Russia, and Sam Leathers, Chicago. In the semi-windup, Baptiste Paul, Victoria Indian, will grapple Jack Wagner, Atlanta, Georgia.

A local preliminary to start at 8:45 o'clock will round out the card.

In his appearance here last Saturday, Mainangoff fought to a no-fall draw with Mike Strelch. The Russian is a real referee "baiter," and gives the fans a good show. Leathers has never appeared here before, but comes with a good record.

Paul, who has been doing well in coast rings, figures to give Wagner a good battle. The latter is fond of handing out the rough stuff, but can handle himself against the best of competition.

Minor League Ball Clubs Start April 5; No Vote Yet on New President

Los Angeles, Nov. 13.—The Coast Baseball League directorate still was faced to-day with the stubborn major problems that confronted it yesterday, not the least of which was the election of a president.

The members of the circuit were in a debating, rather than a voting, mood yesterday with the result that the action behind closed doors amounted to this:

Decision that the schedule for 1936 be twenty-four weeks three days, the same as last season, opening April 5 and closing September 20.

Action limiting ladies-free days at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, to two a week.

The setting aside of a day over the entire circuit when games will be broadcast for the benefit of shut-ins and the throwing open of gates to indigents who can get to the ball parks.

Even the anticipated player deals in large quantities were not forthcoming. The ivory market was exceptionally quiet, with Seattle and Sacramento closing the only trade of the day. This sent John Bottarini, catcher, to Sacramento, in exchange for two pitchers, Paul Gregory and Louis Koupal.

The numerous candidates for the presidential chair vacated by Hyland Baggerly, resigned, were up for discussion but no ballots were taken.

Also tabled yesterday was the possible adoption of a new playoff system which would bring the first division clubs into action in three separate series at the end of the season to decide the pennant.

The meeting will be adjourned late to-day.

Bucks Make Debut in Northwest League By Halting Winning Streak of Vancouver Lions 3 to 1; McCartney, Coupe and Hemmerling Score For Winners

Portland, Nov. 15.—Vancouver Lions to-day had completed their first swing around the coast loop of the Northwest Hockey League after breaking even on their two away-from-home games.

Portland's Buckaroos downed Lions 3 to 1 here yesterday evening for first defeat of the current season for the Pacific club, who defeated Seattle Sea Hawks in the first two games of the schedule.

Walter McCartney, one time Vancouver winger and more recently with Calgary, started the Bucs on their way to victory after five minutes of play in the opening period. The fleet forward flashed away from his own blue line, hurdled a pair of sticks as he hit the Vancouver defence, and flipped the disc past Johnny Clark in the Lions' net.

COUPEZ SCORES
Ten minutes later Louis Coupe, veteran Portland winger, added a second goal, scoring on an angle drive from just over the Vancouver blue line.

Both teams battled furiously for thirteen minutes of the second period before Lions notched their first and only tally of the game.

Hank Dyck dribbled a pass toward the Portland goal and Lude Palm scooped the puck into the net over a tangle of Buckaroos who had been upset in the goalmouth.

Busty Hemmerling made sure of the decision for the Bucs when he grabbed a fast pass from Ralph Blythe and drove it past Clark, who was caught flatfooted.

Teams follow:
Vancouver—Clark; Hutton, Cressy; Smith; O'Neill, Hestall, Sparac; Palm, Dyck, Fridham, P. Sheppard.

Portland—Aitkenhead; Arbour, Sutherland; Blythe; Coupe, J. Hemmerling; Sparac; Scott, Jemson, Lyons, McCaskey.

Referee, Frank Fredrickson.

SUMMARY
First period—1, Portland, McCartney, 4:25; 2, Portland, Coupe, 10:40. Penalties, Blythe.

Second period—3, Vancouver, Palm (Dyck), 13:24. Penalties: Hemmerling, Scott, Sheppard, Fridham.

Third period—4, Portland, Hemmerling (Blythe), 6:52. Penalties: Hemmerling, Hestall, Jemson.

GUN-DOG NOTES

At the recent all-breed dog show held by the Los Angeles Kennel Club, the entry of English setters, sponsored by the English Setter Club of California, totaled forty-five dogs and bitches. It was believed to be the largest entry of this breed ever launched in any of the Pacific Coast states.

This entry was a compliment to the judge, Wm. H. Pym of Vancouver. Of particular interest to local fanciers is the fact that the winning dog is a son of the local stud Mallard Monarch, and was bred by Dr. W. F. Day of Victoria. This setter, Mallard Pal, completed his United States championship at this show.

The current issue of The American Kennel Gazette, the official organ of the American Kennel Club, includes a nice account of the recent field trials of the Victoria and District Gun-Dog Club.

Particular reference is made to the good work of the Gordon setters owned by Norman Lord and Ed. Clayards.

Victoria owned and bred gun-days seem to be attracting a great deal of attention on the southern side of the boundary.

Delay Move For

B.C. Convention Shelves Proposal of Nelson Delegate to Start Move For Legal Sweepstakes

A move by Charles F. McHardy of Nelson to have legalized sweepstakes conducted in aid of hospitals, was delayed indefinitely at the eighteenth annual convention of the B.C. Hospitals' Association in the Empress Hotel this morning.

In support of his argument, Mr. McHardy quoted from a circular mailed from Nelson to all western Canadian hospitals requesting support of a move to have the Criminal Code amended to permit sweepstakes.

PAID-OFF DEBT
He told of a scheme operated in Nelson under which membership tickets constituting hospital benefits were sold which had been the means of paying off a $12,000 debt in two years.

Mr. McHardy proposed four sweepstakes a year, the proceeds to be divided among hospitals in the four western provinces on a bed capacity basis.

E. S. Withers, New Westminster, felt the association would be showing lack of confidence in the government if the resolution was passed.

LACK OF FAITH
State health insurance was "on the books" of the government now and support of the move would indicate lack of faith in the ability of the government to finance hospitals.

T. H. McVety, Vancouver, said the question of sweepstakes was one which had divided the association membership.

"Nevertheless the fact remains that you have this section on the statute books of Canada, and there isn't a government in the country has courage to change it," Mr. McVety said. There was no chance of having the government support any move to amend.

UNBOUND BASIS
Mr. McVety did not think there was any chance to finance hospitals on a sound basis from this source. Furthermore, revenue from sweepstakes would result in a corresponding decrease in government grants, similar to action which had been taken in Ireland.

Hugh Allan, Victoria, said the board of the B.C. Hospitals' Association discussed the question and concurred with Mr. McVety's opinion.

J. M. Coody, Vancouver, did not think the issue was one within the range of practicality in view of the reception it had received in the House of Commons and the Senate.

Rev. E. M. Cook, Chalmers, moved the amendment that the resolution be shelved indefinitely. It was passed.

The monthly meeting of the Victoria Organist and Conductors' Association will be held at the home of the president, W. H. Muncey, 3018 Blackwood Avenue, on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance of the members. Stanley F. Bailey, organist of Christ Church Cathedral, will give a paper on "Church Music and Its Use in the Worship of God." This will be followed by open discussion. Several members of the Victoria Ministerial Association will be present at the meeting.

BANDIT FLEES
BEFORE PISTOL

Police Seek Man Who Levelled Gun and Then Ran Away

Police were still searching to-day for an armed bandit whom the tricks of a defective gun saved from injury and possible death yesterday evening.

The man entered the store of W. Sheppard, at the corner of Vincow Street and Fairfield Road about 9 o'clock yesterday evening and asked change for a five dollar bill.

When Mr. Sheppard turned to comply with his request, the bandit levelled a revolver at him.

Mr. Sheppard reached for his own gun and pulled the trigger three times without being able to fire a shell.

At that show of resistance the man turned and fled.

Later, detectives examining Mr. Sheppard's gun, pulled the trigger and a bullet went through the floor.

This situation, said Mr. Taylor was a natural process where a little nation was dealing with a big one under the present system of commercial competition.

The member-elect was discussing internal and external trade relations in its abstract sense. He said practically all the vigorous conflicts and world differences to-day arose from attempts at trade advancement by the different countries.

This had developed, he explained, within the last 150 years as each nation, led by Britain, had become self-supporting and then competitors with Britain in the trading world. The result was that to-day successful competition that would bring profit and advancement was practically impossible.

Mr. Taylor discussed various other aspects of the world trade situation.

SEVERAL MEETINGS
In an attempt to meet as many of his constituents as possible the new member-elect has attended a number of island meetings this week.

At Sanctioned Wednesday he spoke on the subject of money, discussing the history and telling of the vagaries of the system to-day. To adjust itself to the requirements of technological advancement the money and credit field had been enlarged until it was not operating in its true function.

Mr. Taylor attacked weaknesses in several monetary reform programmes dealing particularly with social credit and similar systems.

Tuesday Mr. Taylor spoke at Shawnigan Lake on the subject of external relationships on the American continent.

This evening he will address two meetings, one at Mount Toimie and the other at Colquhoun.

EXPRESS THANKS AT CONVENTION
Resolutions of thanks to individuals and groups who contributed to the success of the eighteenth annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals' Association in the Empress Hotel were passed when the three-day convocation closed this morning.

Those thanked were: Dr. Harvey Agnew, secretary of the Canadian Hospital Council; Dr. T. M. MacEachern, director of the American College of Surgeons; directors of the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, the ladies' auxiliaries, exhibitors, the press, the staff of the Empress Hotel and those who gave papers and contributed to the discussions.

SPEAK HIGHLY OF HOSPITALITY
Further evidence of Victoria's popularity as a convention city was given at the eighteenth annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals' Association, which closed in the Empress Hotel to-day.

Speakers paid glowing tribute to the treatment they had received here.

Not only were they appreciative of efforts of persons and groups actively connected with their organization who had contributed towards the success of the convocation, but they also spoke highly of the courtesy and hospitality of the citizens generally.

Selection of the next convention city was left in the hands of the newly-elected executive but it is likely the delegates will come here next year as they have done for last year and reports indicate a better attendance at Victoria conventions.

The unidentified and badly decomposed body of a woman found in the waters of the Gorge on Tuesday, was buried in Royal Oak Burial Park yesterday afternoon on the orders of the Esquimalt police.

Efforts were still being made by the Esquimalt police chief, W. Pecknold, to determine who the person was, but late to-day no information of a definite nature had been secured.

The congregational hymn sung were "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." J. H. Miller, W. Mitchell, A. Allen and James Morris were the pallbearers. The remains were laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

D. M. Gordon of Crease and Crease, counsel for the Royal Bank, learning of this proposal, declared the government had no right to the money. Mr. Gordon had the bank throw the matter into court and save to it that the amusement company's charter was revived.

The Attorney-General claimed that the company by the lapse of its charter had lost its right in the money.

Mr. Justice Robertson of the Supreme Court to-day handed down judgment supporting the contention of Mr. Gordon that the restoration of the company restored its rights to the account.

Dealing with this restoration, the judge said: "If it were held to mean that the property which had been entrusted or become bona vacantia was not restored to it when it was again on the register there would be no meaning in the words 'deemed to have continued in existence as if it had not been struck off.'"

The judge ruled that when the company was restored the bank was then in the ordinary position of a banker and its customer and therefore a debtor and not a trustee.

This morning's resolution specified that in event of the next session not adopting state health insurance, this extra charge should be made.

Group to Share Forgotten Money

Judge Rules Out Claim of Attorney-General to Old Company Bank Account

When the Island Amusement Company passed out of existence by being struck off the company list in 1928, there was $7,000 standing to its credit in the Royal Bank of Canada here.

The company is owned by a group of Victorians and formerly operated a downtown theatre. The members of the company had forgotten about the balance in the bank account.

Recently the Attorney-General's Department learned that the money was in the bank, technically to no one's credit as the charter of the amusement company had lapsed and it had legally passed out of existence.

The Attorney-General claimed the money should be re-vested by the government under the old principle of bona vacantia.

D. M. Gordon of Crease and Crease, counsel for the Royal Bank, learning of this proposal, declared the government had no right to the money.

Mr. Gordon had the bank throw the matter into court and save to it that the amusement company's charter was revived.

The Attorney-General claimed that the company by the lapse of its charter had lost its right in the money.

Mr. Justice Robertson of the Supreme Court to-day handed down judgment supporting the contention of Mr. Gordon that the restoration of the company restored its rights to the account.

Dealing with this restoration, the judge said: "If it were held to mean that the property which had been entrusted or become bona vacantia was not restored to it when it was again on the register there would be no meaning in the words 'deemed to have continued in existence as if it had not been struck off.'"

The judge ruled that when the company was restored the bank was then in the ordinary position of a banker and its customer and therefore a debtor and not a trustee.

This morning's resolution specified that in event of the next session not adopting state health insurance, this extra charge should be made.

Fine for Kidney Weakness

STOP RESTLESS NIGHTS

Keep your kidneys free from waste matter, poisons and acid, and put healthy activity into kidneys and bladder and you'll live a healthier, happier and longer life.

One most efficient and harmless way to do this is to get from your druggist a 40-cent box of Gold Medal Haemol Oil Capsules and take them as directed—the swift results will surprise you.

Besides disturbed sleep some symptoms of kidney trouble are backache, most pains, leg cramps and puffiness. If you want real results be sure to get GOLD MEDAL—the original and genuine—a grand kidney stimulant and diuretic—right from Haemol in Holland. Give your kidneys a good cleaning once in a while.

WINS AT POLLS

RT. HON. J. H. THOMAS was re-elected to the British Commons yesterday in Derby. He is Dominion's Secretary in the Baldwin Cabinet.

THERE IS HEALTH, TOO, FOR YOU IN SOUTH AFRICA

YOU gain in health as well as pleasure when you visit South Africa. Warm, lazy days of the ocean voyage bring you rest, relaxation and entertainment. And then the kindly sunshine of South Africa's temperate summer pours down its health nine hours a day—while Canada shivers in its bleak wintry blasts. You live comfortably in good hotels, travel at ease on good trains, or fly the airways in the most modern planes.

Kruger National Park, the world's largest game reserve, offers you thrills galore—lions, giraffes, zebra, to be seen from your car—and refreshing sleep in its snug rest camps. Glorious beaches—where visitors from the whole world gather—beckon you to lie for hours on silver sands. Everywhere you go you have the comforts of civilization along with romance of the frontier.

Native dances and ceremonials, the Congo Caves, Victoria Falls, the mysterious ruins of Zimbabwe—these are some of the wonder-sights to be seen in this sister Dominion. The cities, too, are worthy of many days' visit—with modern stores, buildings, hotels, parks and gardens. And—to help add to your optimism—business is good in South Africa. ENDORSED AT POLLS Returned to the new British Commons is Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, above, Minister for League of Nations Affairs. He was re-elected yesterday in Warwick and Leamington.

THE beauty of the New Ford V-8 was not achieved by chance. It grew out of Ford's purpose to bring every feature of the car up to the standard of the Ford V-8 engine.

That was a real undertaking in an automobile priced as low as the Ford is priced. But many luxury-class features in the Ford V-8 for 1936 show how successfully this purpose has been carried out.

The lines of the New Ford are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the new radiator grille, giving the car new length and grace. Fenders are larger with a wide flare. Horns are concealed behind circular grilles beneath the headlamps. Steel wheels are of new design. Upholstery, fittings and finish are rich and impressive.

Your Ford dealer will gladly arrange for you to drive the New Ford V-8 far enough to get the "feel" of V-8 performance. Then check the wealth of features that reflect this same standard of quality and value—in style, comfort, driving and braking ease, and safety. Your enthusiasm for this car as an outstanding value will equal ours.

It takes eight cylinders for modern performance. The Ford gives you the finest type of eight-cylinder engine—the V-8. Tried and proved in actual service by over two million motorists—its performance, reliability, and economy are bywords.

TUNE IN THE FORD SUNDAY EVENING HOUR. Symphony Orchestra and celebrated guest soloists, 9 o'clock (E. S. T.). FRED WARING AND HIS PENNSYLVANIANS, 9:30 (E. S. T.), Tuesday evening. Columbia Broadcasting System.

PARISHES TO HOLD SERVICE

Special Service of Inspiration and Witness at Cathedral
Next Monday

In furtherance of the Dominion-wide movement initiated earlier in the year for the evangelization of Canadian life, in connection with which, in addition to other preparatory work, two well-attended meetings have been already held in the Victoria rural deanery, there will be a special service of inspiration and witness in Christ Church Cathedral on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, when it is expected that every parish in the rural deanery will be represented.

Having for its object a greater witness in the life of the Canadian people, both by members of the church as such and by the church corporately, the movement is sponsored by the leaders of several Christian communities, and has been endorsed by the diocese of Columbia.

A movement of a similar kind in the Episcopal Church in the United States has been acclaimed as the most far-reaching during the last sixty years, and from which striking results have already accrued.

The special form of service will be made available to those present on Monday evening, and will include well-known hymns and acts of allegiance and discipleship, leading up to act of offering and surrender in which the Bishop of Columbia, the Rt. Rev. Dr. V. Schofield, will lead his people.

During the service an address will be given by the Coadjutor-Bishop, the Right Rev. H. E. Sexton, and the issues will be placed before the congregation in such a manner as to stimulate the next step in the movement, which will take the form of services of meditation and consecration in the parishes themselves.

Left hand across right knee, right hand back in the air, the discus thrower stands always prepared to hurl that plate, but never does, on stamps of many countries.

In 1896, Greece restored this athlete from a dim past, and placed him on one of its Olympic stamps. Then in 1920, Belgium illustrated him on a stamp, and the United States issued a similar stamp for the Olympic Games in Los Angeles in 1932. Since then other countries have adopted this supposedly earliest example of Greek sculpture on stamps issued in connection with national or international Olympics.

This picture comes from the original "discobolus" by Myron the Greek sculptor who lived about 2,500 years ago. Generally, however, the head, is not shown properly, looking down and to the front away from the discus, when it should be looking back toward it.

An example is the Costa Rica Olympics stamp shown here, issued in 1924. (Copyright 1935, NEA Service Inc.)

Latest Books at Public Library

NON-FICTION

(The numbers before the titles indicate the library classification.)

173. "The Family Book" (edited by Owen St. Aubyn.) A comprehensive guide to family life from before marriage to the adolescence of children—primarily for parents. This is an excellent work of its kind. Every aspect of family life is touched upon, and every possible piece of advice or information given to parents. Each chapter is written by an authority in his field, while the book as a whole is free from over-technical or pedantic language. The appendix forms a valuable supplement, giving a wide reading list of books and pamphlets on various subjects treated, besides a section on where to obtain help and information. Some criticism might be made of the arrangement of the sections dealing with birth control, which by being placed at the beginning appear to deny the further purpose of the book. One must emphasize, therefore, that both the pros and cons of this question are fairly dealt with.

904. "Great Events in History" (edited by G. R. Stirling Taylor.) This work comprises fourteen chapters each of which treats fully a "great event" from the Egyptian Empire to the Great War. From these fourteen high peaks of history one may survey the stream of time. Such well-known names as G. D. H. Cole, Wickham Steed and Sir Basil Blackett appear in the list of authors, while selected events include: Democratic experiment in fifteenth century Athens; the continuity of Rome; founding of the British rule in India; invention of machinery; arrival of labor in politics; era of planning.

629.2 "Prevention of Automobile Accidents: Safe Driving Assured" (V. W. Page) is a timely addition to the library. It is a guide to expert driving, containing numerous suggestions for safe and sane operation of automobiles on the highways. It includes instructions for inspection and adjustment of car mechanism to prevent loss of control with resulting personal and property damage.

370.94. "Modern European Educators and Their Work" (Adolph Meyer) is a work that will interest all teachers and educationalists, being a review of contemporary educational trends. The author, who is assistant professor of education at the New York University, says in his preface, "I have made an effort to include sections on educators about whose work little or nothing has been written in English." Exceptions are found in the inclusion of the Montessori and Danish Folk High Schools. Although written by an American essentially for Americans, others will find it useful in giving a perspective to their own work and aims. There is a good bibliography included.

660. "Chemical Engineers' Handbook" (Edited by John H. Perry.) This is a thorough, comprehensive handbook, comparable in all ways to standard manuals in other fields of engineering. Dependable facts, figures, formulas and practical methods are given, covering not only chemical engineering and the unit processes, but also such related topics as Plant Location, Patent Law, Fire Protection, etc., of importance to all connected with this profession. It makes available a tremendous store of up-to-date and authoritative information providing quick answers to many questions on all phases of chemical engineering.

811.3 "Lyrics of Earth, Sonnets and Ballads" (Archibald Lampman.) This is a selection made by Duncan Campbell Scott of Lampman's nature poems—those which are "a mingling of nature and life," together with all the sonnets the poet wrote. The nature and the life he saw was the Canadian scene, and it may well be said of him that "his muse is the muse of his native land."

B. "Wilhelm Conrad Röntgen" (O. St. Glasser.) This work combines a careful study of the discovery of X-rays and their applications with an account of the life and professional activities of Röntgen. It is written in a simple and direct style, and will be found of interest to anyone who wishes to know how and by what kind of men the world's best scientific work is being done. It is richly illustrated by reproductions of photographs, and is provided with a good bibliography.

808.2 "College Omnibus" (edited by J. D. McCullum) is an anthology of modern literature that represents every important trend and major type in modern letters.

785.11 "Victor Book of Symphony" (Charles O'Connell.) With the rapid growth of interest in orchestral music all over the world, many people will welcome a guide to music of this type. There are descriptions and analyses of 240 orchestral pieces in this comprehensive work. There are illustrations of various instruments and photographs of a number of well-known musicians. Leopold Stokowski says in his foreword, "In simple language it gives the technical background of symphonic music so that even an inexperienced music lover can understand and enjoy it. In reading it his mind and emotions will be stimulated so that his pleasure in listening to the music afterwards will be greater." This book is in the Reference Department only.

Other books added recently to the Reference Department are: 338. "National Handbook of Australia's Industries." 438. "Art of Versification and the Technicalities of Poetry," by R. F. Brewer, with a new and complete rhyming dictionary included. 620.3 "Materials Handbook: an Encyclopedia for Purchasing Agents, Engineers, Executives and Foremen" (G. S. Brady, 368. "Laws of Insurance" (E. S. M. Wyman), 970.1 "History of the Indian Tribes of North America" (McKenney and Hall). This is in three volumes, and 902. "March of Man" (published by the Encyclopaedia Britannica Co. Ltd.)

POLICE METHODS SAID TO DIFFER

Associated Press

Chicago, Nov. 15. — Police Capt. John P. Stege, veteran nemesis of gunmen, listened with polite but somewhat amazed interest to-day to this statement by Detective Inspector Arthur Bishop of London's famous Scotland Yard: "Even in the search for as desperate a criminal as John Dillinger the Scotland Yard police would not have been armed."

"If we tried chasing these hoodlums in Chicago with a billy club we'd get our ears shot off," Capt. Stege replied.

Erratic Trading With Close Firm On Wall St. Mart

Canadian Press
New York, Nov. 15.—The stock market was not so vigorous on the upside to-day, but firmness of rails, oils, farm implement issues and specialties prevented any selling of consequence.

There was some feverish buying in the morning, although dull periods followed as profit-taking appeared in some of the recent leaders. A number of "new highs" were recorded, however, and the close was fairly firm. Transfers approximated 3,000,000 shares.

Shares of Case got up more than 6 points and gained of fractions to around 2 included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Canadian Pacific, International Harvester, Oliver Farm, Caterpillar Tractor, Standard Oil of New Jersey and California, Seaboard Oil, Texas Corp., Loew's, Evans Products, General Cable, Timken Roller Bearing, Yellow Truck, Omnibus Corp., Schenley and American Car and Foundry, while Texas was a run-up of 4 points and Chrysler was an exception among the motor cars with an advance of more than 2. Two warriors appeared before the girl's vision now, and soon set up a large stake beside the one already in place. Others entered the hut that Zu-lag, the ape, had been watching. They came out, dragging two captives.

One of them the girl recognized as her protector and the other as an Englishman in an aviator's uniform. This, then, was the reason for the TWO stakes! "Come," she said to Zu-lag, as if she were talking to one of her own kind.

She swung lightly to the hut's roof below, then to the ground, keeping within the dense shadows. "If only I had some sort of weapon," she thought, "that might give me a slight advantage against the savages!" She turned to look for Zu-lag.

Seeing that Zu-lag was close behind her, and believing that the other apes followed, she moved more cautiously. She saw the savages congregating about the prisoners, already being bound to the stakes. Quickly she slipped into the hut.

Tarzan The Untamed

Now Boys Can Become Popular With Girls

Says, Don't Assume All Girls Are Dumb, Darns

BOYS, IF YOU WANT to make a hit with the girls: Don't be patronizing. Don't act as if you were the answer to a maiden's prayer, and that she should be down on her knees thanking Heaven that you have deigned to notice her.

The boys who assume the Grand Vicer attitude toward girls are mistaken. If they think they are overflowing with gratitude at having the handkerchief thrown to them. What they are filled with is thoughts of murder. Don't assume that you are Old Man Solomon and that every girl is a Dumb Dora that you have to talk down to. There are more than twice as many girls who are high school and college graduates as there are boys. Because a girl rolls her eyes at you and asks you fool questions is no sign she doesn't know all the answers.

Don't take it for granted that every girl you meet falls in love with you at sight and is dying to get you. To most of them you are just a meal and a theatre ticket and they wouldn't marry you on a bet.

Don't sit on the back of your neck when you take a girl out and make her do all of the entertaining. Fair play is fair play and it is up to you to supply as much vivacity as she does, and do your part toward making the evening a success.

Don't think you can dispense with good manners just because you are a man and girls are so humble nowadays that they put up with any sort of treatment from their dates. There isn't a girl in the world who doesn't resent in her secret soul a boy driving up to her house and knocking for her until she comes out and climbs in the car by herself, or who wouldn't like to go home alone when a boy takes her to a party and dumps her down and leaves her to shift for herself while he goes off to amuse himself in his own way. Chivalry may be dead, but it is what every woman in the world craves. Remember in all the old melodramas it is the villain with the polished manners whom no woman can resist.

Don't use the same line with every girl. Use your brains and think up a new lead. Don't ask every girl, five minutes after you first meet her, where she has been all your life and follow it up by telling her how different she is from all other women. That's old stuff and every girl has heard it so often that it doesn't get a rise out of her.

Don't be sloppy. A girl can forgive a man for breaking all the Ten Commandments easier than she can for lacking a shave and a shoe shine. No girl wants to be seen out with a boy who looks as if he had just been fished out of the ashcan and needed to be run through the laundry and the clothes presser. A noble heart may beat under a coat with soup stains on it and a vigorous brain surmount a soiled collar, but they don't make any hit with a girl who spends a large proportion of her time and money in the beauty shops.

Don't brag. Don't entertain a girl by blowing your own horn and telling her how wonderful you are and what a wizard of finance and how crazy your boss is about you. You are not fooling her even if she does look at you round-eyed and yes-yes you. She sized you up to the last hair on your head the first time she saw you and can guess within fifty cents of what is in your pay envelope. Above all, don't brag to a girl about what a heart-smasher you are. She sets you down as a cad and gives you the air because she doesn't want to be next.

Don't talk about yourself all the time. The only woman in the world who is interested in hearing all the details of what you do and think and say is your mother. Anyway, give the poor girl a chance. She would like to talk about herself a little.

Don't be stingy. When you take a girl out don't act as if you begrudged every cent you spent on her. Don't buy the cheapest seats in the theatre nor cut-rate candy. Make her feel that you consider her worth the price. Better a ham sandwich ordered with a lordly air than a dinner at the Ritz, where you add up the bill and haggle with the waiter.

Don't be an easy mark. Don't fall for hints. Don't let a girl make you spend more than you can afford, or use you as a convenience. All girls have a contempt for the man they can work.

Don't be a deadbeat. Don't eat a girl's food and camp on her chairs and ride in her car without paying her back in some way. If you haven't any money to spend on her, show her attentions. Be Johnny-on-the-spot whenever she needs an escort.

Follow these rules, boys, and you will be popular with girls. For girls are easy to please where men are concerned.

Uncle Wiggily And Bunty's Home Work

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily always wanted his rabbit children to do as well as they could at school, learn all the right and pay attention to the Lady Mouse Teacher. To this end he would help them evenings or afternoons with their home work, hearing their lessons and sometimes telling them the answers they didn't know.

"Oh, Uncle Wig, we have a very hard lesson for to-morrow," said Bunty.

"What's it about, Bunty?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"It's about Indians," said the orphan rabbit. "Miss Mouse, in school, read us about how there were Indians here when the white settlers came and wanted the first Thanksgiving. She said the settlers learned many things from the Indians: how to catch wild turkeys for Thanksgiving and how to raise corn. And now we have to learn something about the Indians to say in class to-morrow."

"SOMETHING NEW?"

"Oh, that isn't so hard, Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily. "You know, already, I'm sure, from what Miss Mouse told you, many things about the Indians."

"Yes," said the little orphan rabbit. "But Miss Mouse wants us, for home work, to find out something new-something she didn't tell us about the Indians and say it to her in class to-morrow. That's what I have for home work - to tell in class to-morrow something different about the Indians. Oh, dear. What shall I do?"

"I'll help you, Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily.

"What new thing can I find out about the Indians?" Bunty asked.

Uncle Wiggily thought for a moment and then said:

"Did Miss Mouse tell you how the Indians used to roast, or parch, dried sweet corn so they could take it along with them in leather bags when they went hunting?"

"No, she didn't tell us that," said Bunty, brightening up now she thought she wouldn't fail in her home work. "But if I say that in class, Miss Mouse will ask me what the Indians used to parch corn for and I don't know what to answer."

"I'm going to tell you," said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "The Indians parched or roasted kernels of sweet corn and it made a fine food for them, easily carried. When they traveled through the woods," how first the Indians would plant their corn. When the ears were large enough some of them were picked while green and soft and either boiled or roasted on hot stones in a fire.

"PARCHING CORN"

"But that wasn't parched corn," said Mr. Longears. "That is made after the green sweet corn kernels have become dried and hard. When they get this way the Indians would break the kernels loose from the cob and pickled while green and soft and either boiled or roasted on hot stones in a fire."

"The Indians, going on a long journey, would take a leather bag filled with the browned corn kernels and, when they got hungry, they would chew and swallow them," said the rabbit gentleman. "Or they might grind the parched corn into a powder and meal between two stones and make a sort of mush of it with water. That was good."

"Oh, Uncle Wig," said Bunty laughing. "You've given me a lot of good homework about the Indians. But I wish you'd give me some parched corn, too. Will you, please?" Mr. Longears said maybe he

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1935

Conflicting planetary influences are discerned today, according to astrology. It is a day of promise for persons in authority who hold conferences or outline plans.

Under this conjunction, the stars indicate that a complete agreement about a specially favorable rule for men's clubs and women's recreation.

Contacts made to-day may be fortunate. It is a lucky time to associate with persons in high social and political circles.

It is not a favorable time to start sea voyages for storms are forecast. There is an ill omen connected with naval affairs. An international incident may be grossly exaggerated.

The planetary government favors lawyers and lawmakers. Serious difficulties over recent legislation are prognosticated.

This is a threatening away for aviation. The stars warn of accidents due to sabotage and breaks in the machinery of airplanes.

Woodsworth Will Speak in New York

New York, Nov. 15.-J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation of Canada, who arrived in New York yesterday, will address a meeting of the American Commonwealth Federation this evening.

Governor Floyd R. Olson of Minnesota also will be a speaker.

Mr. Woodsworth said he was awaiting interest details of the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada. He said that although he was not in favor of a complete abolition of tariff barriers, it was "ridiculous to put up a line between two countries so naturally interrelated."

He pointed out the federation favored a controlled import and export policy so that workers would not be forced into idleness through trade fluctuations.

SHIP APPEAL IS DISMISSED

Paterson Steamship Company Must Pay Total Liability For Cargo Loss

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The Supreme Court of Canada to-day dismissed the appeal of Paterson Steamships Limited, Port William, Ont., to reduce from $137,484 to $69,297 its total liability for loss of cargo to the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers' Association and Universal Insurance Co., Insurers for James Richardson and Co. Limited, Winnipeg.

Both shipments of grain involved were severely damaged when the Paterson Company's vessel, Barnadoc, was stranded and became a total loss in November, 1929, on Main Duck Island at the eastern end of Lake Ontario. The Barnadoc at the time was enroute from Port Colborne, Ont., to Montreal. The shipment, being carried for the wheat pool, contained 5,091 bushels of barley and 56,594 bushels of wheat and the vessel had in its hold 37,391 bushels of wheat property of the Richardson Company.

To-day's judgment said the steamship company is liable for about $77,000 damages to the wheat pool and approximately $60,000 to the Richardson Company.

B.C. DELEGATES AT CONVENTION

Are Asked Dock Be Secured Where "Armed Guards" Not Needed

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—The Maritime Federation of the Pacific went on record yesterday as against the proposed Copeland Bill, which it declared would definitely lower living standards of marine workers on the West Coast.

A federation statement characterized the bill as outlining "a programme obviously designed to arbitrarily lower the wages and working conditions now existing in American industry on the West Coast by setting up Shipping Board hiring halls and definitely fixing the wage scale at a substantially lower rate than now existing as per contractual agreements between the West Coast Maritime Union and ship owners."

"A vicious blacklisting system would be instituted in order to demoralize the men and wipe out their unions."

All delegates reported on conditions of their ports, saying progress was being made in the various organizations affiliated with the union, the statement said.

Fraternizing delegates from the striking Vancouver, B.C., longshoremen are sitting in the convention and have been requested by the federation to secure a dock in Vancouver where crews of American ships can work without armed guards, as existing agreements provide that members cannot be forced to work where dangers to life and limb exist.

Ss. Kohnan Maru Returns to Port After Fight With Elements; Loch Monar Forced to Steam Up and Down Off Victoria All Night; Talthybius and Hikawa Maru Also Feel Storm Effects

Deep-sea ships felt the effect of yesterday evening's severe blow, and one of them, the Japanese freighter Kohnan Maru was forced to return to port to-day with a fifteen degree list, suffered when she shipped a huge sea eighty miles off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The Kohnan Maru, which loaded a parcel of lumber here the last week in October, passed out to sea at 1:50 o'clock yesterday morning. In the early evening she ran into the gale and for several hours was hoisted, as huge seas buffeted her about. At 11 o'clock in the evening she shipped the sea, the list developing shortly afterwards when her cargo shifted.

Capt. Y. Yamamoto, master of the ship, deemed it wisest to turn about and head back to Victoria. King Brothers, local shipping agents, expected her to reach the Ogden Point pier between 2:30 and 3 o'clock this afternoon. She will be fixed up at this port before starting off to sea again, en route to Australia.

The disabled freighter was built at the Mitsubishi yards at Nagasaki in 1918. She is registered in Lloyd's at 5,227 tons, with a length of 400 feet, a beam of fifty-four feet and a depth of thirty feet. Her home port is Kobe.

TALTHYBIUS DELAYED

The Blue Funnel liner Talthybius, which was delayed last week in mid-Pacific by gales and heavy seas was further held back when she ran into yesterday evening's storm off Cape Flattery. She was unable to make William Head until 11 o'clock this evening and then, in order to catch up on lost time, omitted her call at Victoria and proceeded directly to Vancouver.

UNABLE TO BERTH

The Royal Mail liner Loch Monar, Capt. H. P. Womersley, arrived off Victoria yesterday evening at 10 o'clock from the United Kingdom and was unable to berth at Ogden Point. So strong was the wind that her anchor would not hold and she was forced to steam up and down the straits all night, docking this morning at 6:45 o'clock. The doctor at William Head said the ship had evened her list and had evened out on lost time, omitted her call at Victoria and proceeded directly to Vancouver.

GOES TO SEA

The Japanese motorship Hikawa Maru, which passed off Victoria at 9 o'clock yesterday evening felt the effects of the gale as she steamed out of the straits on her way to the open ocean, bound for Japanese ports. All west coast weather stations reported the seas rough, so the Hikawa Maru is probably still fighting her way through big seas.

BUSINESS SAME AT AUTO CAMPS

Victoria's auto camps are settling down for the winter season now, they expect the season will be no more active for them than it was last year.

Most of the camps rent out the majority of their cabins as homes for the winter months, keeping only a few free for the occasional tourists who come to the island during winter. There are still a few tourists passing through the auto camps of the district, according to a survey made by The Times this morning. One camp stated that the number was higher than usual for November. Others thought it was about the same as usual. One said it was lower.

The only visitors from the United States in camps here at present are from the state of Washington. The majority of the winter business, which is not great, comes from prairie people.

Most camps stated that they were expecting an average of one or two visitors each day until next spring. Some were not even as optimistic as that.

The general impression seems to be that there is just about the same number of winter tourists coming through Victoria as usual, and that the prospects for the rest of the season are much the same as they were last year.

The majority of these visitors just spend single nights in camps, although a good number settle for periods of from a week to a month or more.

PUGET SOUND SHIPS SOLD

Seattle, Nov. 15.—O. W. Deal, president of the Ferryboatmen's Union, announced yesterday evening that a strike was called against the Puget Sound Navigation Company, tying up the swift Black Ball ferries Kalakala and Chippewa on the Seattle-Bremerton run.

The only remaining service between here and the navy yard city was by the Washington route's steamer Commander and a twice-a-day service by the small steamer Verona.

The strike called applied to the ferry crossing, operating between Alki and Manchester. The Crosline's tie-up left the west side of Puget Sound without service, as the Fauntleroy-Harper service had closed.

Deal said the Black Ball lines operate between Mukilteo and Port Ludlow and in the San Juan Islands would be allowed to operate for the present so as not to cut off these places from transportation.

Seattle and Bainbridge Island the remaining ferry service several trips daily by a Kitsap Transportation Company steamer. The strike has broken service to Port Blakely and northern points on the island.

OUTSIDE LEADERSHIP

Capt. F. E. Lovejoy, president of the Washington Ship Owners' Association, yesterday called on members of the striking Ferryboatmen's Union and the Masters, Mates and Pilots' Association to "renounce outside leadership."

He branded the "San Francisco men who have come here for gray."

He said the operators are "through listening" to Walter G. Mathewson, U.S. Department of Labor conciliator, "because he has done no good since he came here from San Francisco."

Meanwhile, the King County Board of Commissioners served a resolution on the Kitsap County Transportation and its surety bondsmen, that it resume Fauntleroy-Vashon Island service, regardless of the strike. Otherwise, the resolution threatened, the county will cancel the lease agreement under which the company has operated since 1927.

The unions yesterday granted residents the concession of two round trips a day between Fauntleroy and Vashon Island.

VESELS SOLD

Another development in the ferryboat situation came with an announcement by Capt. J. L. Anderson, president of the Kitsap Transportation Company, that he had sold the company's properties and fleet to the Puget Sound Navigation Company.

He did not disclose the purchase price.

Boats taken over by the navigation company are: The ferries Vashon, Bainbridge and Kitsap, and the passenger and freight steamers Hyak, Winslow, Manitou and Verona.

Wharves in various parts of the Sound and the lease of the Canadian National dock were included in the deal.

Anderson said he would operate Lake Washington ferries he has leased from King County, and the Anderson water tours.

Stockholders approved the transaction, Anderson said, adding that the strike situation prompted the decision to sell.

FORMER SHIP BUILDER HERE

C. Chelberg, well known in the post-war years in Victoria as a shipbuilder, arrived in the city this morning from Shushartie, Vancouver Island, and is registered at the Dominion Hotel.

The Chelberg shipyards intended to build four wooden sailing ships at their yard on the Inner Harbor. Only one of these was ever completed, the Simon P. Tolmie. The other three vessels in various stages of construction were broken up for firewood.

Mr. Chelberg is here on a business visit. He will leave this evening for Vancouver. He is at present engaged in boat building at Shushartie.
